Active Learning For Ones Active Learning Series:

Active Learning for Ones Debby Cryer, 1987 This publication has over 300 activities for children 12-24 months old. The activities are easy to read and do with one child or a small group. Active Learning Olena Lutsenko, Gregory

Lutsenko, 2022-02-09 In the context of globalization changes in educational systems it is important to modify approaches to the educational process and introduce learning technologies that allow for maximum involvement in learning. One such technology is the technology of active learning which engages learners through participation in the cognitive process and certain tasks as well as through the collective activities of the subjects of the educational process. This book discusses the theoretical analysis of active learning and contains practical recommendations for its implementation. Active Learning and Student Engagement Mick Healey, Eric Pawson, Michael Solem, 2013-09-13 This book examines significant issues in geography teaching and learning from the perspectives of an international network of academic geographers and postgraduate students. Drawing on classroom experiences and research in a wide variety of educational settings, the authors describe conceptually interesting and practical applications for enhancing student learning through inquiry, problem-based learning, field study, online collaboration, and other highly engaging forms of pedagogy. Other articles focus on approaches for improving the experiences of distance learners, strategies for enhancing the employability of geography students, and preparing students to engage ethical issues in the discipline. An international audience of educators will find much of value through the use of comparative examples, literature reviews encompassing research in multiple national contexts, and an underlying awareness of the diversity of practices in higher education internationally. This book is a collection of articles previously published in two special issues of the Journal of Geography in Higher Education. Active Learning for Fives Debby Cryer, 1996 Active Learning: Theoretical Perspectives, Empirical Studies and Design Profiles Robert Cassidy, Elizabeth S. Charles, James D. Slotta, Nathaniel Lasry, 2019-07-11 This book represents the emerging efforts of a growing international network of researchers and practitioners to promote the development and uptake of evidence-based pedagogies in higher education at something of a level approaching large-scale impact. By offering a communication venue that attracts and enhances much-needed partnerships among practitioners and researchers in pedagogical innovation, we aim to change the conversation and focus on how we work and learn together, i.e., extending the implementation and knowledge of co-design methods. In this first edition of our Research Topic on Active Learning, we highlight two of the three types of publications we wish to promote. First are studies aimed at understanding the pedagogical designs developed by practitioners in their own practices by bringing to bear the theoretical lenses developed and tested in the education research community. These types of studies constitute the practice pull that we see as a necessary counterbalance to knowledge push in a more productive pedagogical innovation ecosystem based on research-practitioner partnerships. Second are studies empirically examining the implementations of evidence-based designs in naturalistic settings and under naturalistic conditions.

Interestingly the teams conducting these studies are already exemplars of partnerships between researchers and practitioners who are uniquely positioned as in between straddling the two worlds As a result these publications represent both the rigours of research and the pragmatism of reflective practice In forthcoming editions we will add to this collection a third type of publication design profiles These will present practitioner developed pedagogical designs at varying levels of abstraction to be held to scrutiny amongst practitioners instructional designers and researchers alike We hope by bringing these types of studies together in an open access format that we may contribute to the development of new forms of practitioner researcher interactions that promote co design in pedagogical innovation

Active Learning to Minimize the Possible Risk of Future Epidemics KC Santosh, Suprim Nakarmi, 2023-11-22 Future epidemics are inevitable and it takes months and even years to collect fully annotated data The sheer magnitude of data required for machine learning algorithms spanning both shallow and deep structures raises a fundamental question how big data is big enough to effectively tackle future epidemics In this context active learning often referred to as human or expert in the loop learning becomes imperative enabling machines to commence learning from day one with minimal labeled data In unsupervised learning the focus shifts toward constructing advanced machine learning models like deep structured networks that autonomously learn over time with human or expert intervention only when errors occur and for limited data a process we term mentoring In the context of Covid 19 this book explores the use of deep features to classify data into two clusters 0 1 Covid 19 non Covid 19 across three distinct datasets cough sound Computed Tomography CT scan and chest x ray CXR Not to be confused our primary objective is to provide a strong assertion on how active learning could potentially be used to predict disease from any upcoming epidemics Upon request education training purpose GitHub source codes are provided
