The Role of Collocations in Language Teaching Daniel Mehburger, 2010-06 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 2.3 Friedrich Alexander University Erlangen Nuremberg language English abstract Collocations are frequently used in everyday life Hausmann 2003 318 They can be found in literally every conversation or in written texts The good thing about collocations is that they are quite easy to understand Hausmann 2003 312 Few German learners of English would have problems understanding what to take a picture or to catch a train means But on the other hand when producing oral or written language knowing the idiomatic way to express one's thoughts proves to be a lot tougher. It might take German learners of English quite some time to learn that you can say blond hair but not blond car or that a good looking woman is not a handsome woman like a man would be called but a beautiful or pretty woman. Herbst Stoll Westermayr 1991 164. So we can see that in order to be able to produce idiomatic English and using words appropriately collocations are needed mostly for naming actions of everyday life or for specific language like business English. Hausmann 2004 318. This is the harder part regarding collocations after learning some basic vocabulary particularly nouns. Students of English need to learn which adjectives or verbs can be used together with the nouns. Hausmann 2004 310. Besides being important for young learners, collocations are also an important issue for advanced learners of a language. Researches showed that even students at a higher collegiate level who had good knowledge of English and knew grammar rules very well had problems producing text that sounds idiomatic especially regarding collocations. Bahns 1997 69ff. The relevance of collocations is clear to see but precisely defining what a collocation is is not. There are many different approaches to defining collocations. Among them two approaches have emerged.

Collocations and Idioms 1 Marja Nenonen, Sinikka Niemi, 2007 Teaching Business English Collocations Using Authentic Materials Anna Jurčenko, Jur Enko Anna, 2015-02-02. Collocations are essential for communication especially in the field of business; however, the knowledge of collocations is often insufficient. The aim of the work is to compare the effectiveness of using authentic vs. non-authentic materials for teaching Business English collocations to bachelor programme pre-experience learners by means of conducting the quasi-experiment. The data collection tools namely classroom observation, course evaluation, questionnaire and test results showed that the group that was taught the collocations using authentic materials made more considerable progress than the group in which non-authentic materials were employed. It is concluded that authentic materials designed using corpora and business-related websites analysis facilitate learners' collocational competence and should be incorporated in teaching.
