Best Practices in Adult Learning

Thomas A. Flint, 1999 Assessing Educational Outcomes Margery Garbin, 1991 Portfolio Development and the Assessment of Prior Learning Elana Michelson, Alan Mandell, 2004

For over thirty years portfolios have been used to help adult learners gain recognition for their prior learning and take greater control of their educational experiences The portfolio has become a distinctive means of assessing such learning serving as a meaningful alternative to conventional papers and standardized testing Portfolio Development and the Assessment of Prior Learning Perspectives Models and Practices provides a primer of flexible approaches to shaping and conducting portfolio development courses It offers practitioners in the field an extensive range of model assignments readings and classroom activities each organized around a specific theme Academic Orientation The Meaning of Education Personal Exploration Learning from the Outsider Within The World of Work and Careers and Dimensions of Expertise Twelve case studies by practitioners in the field then show how academics in the US and around the English speaking world have adapted the portfolio to changing circumstances in order to deliver academically rich educational services for adults These case studies highlight portfolio development in the context of web based instruction changing institutional imperatives service to historically disenfranchised groups partnerships with industry and cross institutional cooperation In addition to serving as a valuable hands on resource for practitioners Portfolio Development and the Assessment of Prior Learning locates portfolios and assessment in a broad social and intellectual context Thus the authors also offer an historical overview of the usefulness of portfolios in the assessment of prior learning and then consider their use in the future given current trends in higher education for adults The book explores the implications of a changing educational landscape in which new student populations budgetary pressures and understandings of knowledge both enrich and challenge student centered approaches such as portfolios The approaches and case studies are not only valuable to adult educators but equally to faculty in higher education concerned with the development of competency and outcomes based assessment

Measuring What Matters: Competency-Based Learning Models in Higher Education Richard Voorhees, 2001-07-30 Intended as a toolkit for academic administrators faculty and researchers to deal effectively with the rapid emergence of competency based learning models across higher education this volume provides practical advice and proven techniques for implementing and evaluating these models Drawing from a recent National Postsecondary Education Cooperative project that examined data and policy implications across public and private institutions as well as an industrial setting readers will find an inventory of strong practices to utilize in evaluating competency based initiatives Issues discussed include practical concerns of measuring and reporting competency the critical connections between the skills employers seek and student preparation for them the connections between distance education accreditation and competencies and the difficult procedure of setting appropriate passing standards for assessments With a bibliography on competency literature and a framework for creating competency models this volume is an invaluable tool to researchers and practitioners alike This is the 110th issue of the Jossey Bass series New Directions for Institutional Research
