

Final Exam Study Guide

Two important things to remember for the final exam:

- 1) The final exam questions are application based. They want you to think about how these course concepts apply to real-world situations, like interacting with teachers, or giving a speech.
- 2) The questions often ask you to choose the best or most likely answer, so you have to think not just is this answer applicable, but is it the answer that best addresses what the question is asking?

Introduction to Communication: Important Concepts

- 1) Models of communication: Be able to identify the three models of communication, understand the roles of sender, receiver, encoder, and decoder.
 - a) Noise: the four types of noise (and the final is much more likely to address the concepts identified as "context" like environmental as noise)
- 2) The three characteristics of communication: inevitable, irreversible, unrepeatable
- 3) The three myths of communication
- 4) The characteristics of competent communicators

Perception: Important Concepts

- 1) The perception process: know the steps and be able to identify examples of each.
- 2) Define schema and give a definition.
- 3) Define and understand self-concept
- 4) Define and understand self-disclosure, and understand when it is appropriate and when it isn't
- 5) Define and understand self-serving bias
- 6) Define and be able to identify prototype, stereotype, script

Culture: Important Concepts

- 1) Ethnocentrism
- 2) The relationship between culture and communication
- 3) Strategies and approaches to communicate across difference

Verbal Communication: Important Concepts

- 1) Characteristics of communication (what distinguishes human communication from animal communication)
- 2) Abstracting process
- 3) Ethical communication

Nonverbal Communication: Important Concepts

- 1) Be able to identify examples of each of the 8 different functions of nonverbal communication.
- 2) Define nonverbal channel

Clinical Neuropsychology Study Guide and Board Review Kirk Stucky, Michael Kirkwood, Jacobus Donders, Christine Liff, 2020-09-01 Clinical Neuropsychology Study Guide and Board Review Second Edition provides an easy to study volume with sample questions and recommended readings that are specifically designed to help individuals prepare for the ABCN written examination. In addition, this book can be used as a teaching tool for graduate students and trainees at various levels. The book is divided into three sections: Section I Foundations of Clinical Neuropsychology, Section II Fundamentals of Assessment, and Section III Disorders and Conditions. The format is geared toward exam preparation and is much less dense than a typical textbook. Information is provided in a concise, outlined manner with liberal use of bullets, boxes, illustrations, and tables that allow readers to easily review and integrate information into their already established knowledge base. To augment the study guide, a recommended readings list at the end of each chapter provides references to more comprehensive materials considered important or seminal in each topic area. Additionally, the book contains four 125-question mock exams designed to help readers study and prepare for the written exam. The answers to all questions are explained along with appropriate and supportive references. Features: Detailed charts and summary tables that facilitate conceptual learning; Concise coverage of pediatric, adult, and geriatric issues and conditions; Emphasis on critical teaching points relevant to current neuropsychological practice; Mock exam questions with answers and references at the end of every chapter relevant to the content; Four separate 125-question full-length mock exams with answers and references. Pediatric Nursing
