Breaking Rules: The Social and Situational Dynamics of Young People's Urban Crime Per-Olof H. Wikström, 2012-05-24 Breaking new ground in the study of crime in urban environments Breaking Rules The Social and Situational Dynamics of Young People's Urban Crime examines the findings theoretical basis and new methodology of The Peterborough Adolescent and Young Adult Development Study PADS This major longitudinal study investigates the role of the social environment on crime causation involving a cohort of 700 young people from the age of 12 A particular aim of PADS is to employ a new theory known as Situational Action Theory as well as the innovative methodology of econometrics combined with space time budgets to improve the study of young people's offending and its changes By reviewing the current literature and analysing the theoretical and methodological problems of previous research the book explains how Situational

Action Theory can help overcome central problems in criminological theorising Using this new and innovative framework it presents an analysis of the urban structure of Peterborough and its correlation to the differences in social life found in that area The variations in the urban environment are examined in terms of crime victimization and fear of crime and a detailed examination of young persons crime and its spatial patterns is offered through the unique space time budget data collected within PADS that enables analyses of young people their movements and crime involvement With implications for policy and prevention as well as being the first study of its kind this book should be of great interest to policy makers and practitioners interested in issues of urban environments as well as those studying crime in the urban environment and the role of the social environment in crime causation

Huberts,André van Montfort,Alan Doig,2006 To what extent and in which manner do government bodies break laws and rules What are the reasons for doing so and what are the consequences Are public bodies less law and rule abiding than private organizations and corporations This book discusses these issues based on research in the Netherlands and the United Kingdom It pays attentions to rule and law breaking in areas such as environmental protection fire safety and working conditions It is concluded that government bodies break rules across the board and in all policy sectors Government organisations regularly violate administrative law regulations and to a lesser extent commit criminal law violations This is true for all levels of government and all policy areas The reasons not only relate to deliberate intent but are also increasingly linked to the complexity of managing and delivering public functions Thus rule and law breaking warrants more attention in policy and regulation as well as in research in public administration criminology public ethics law and political science A state that ignores its own rules and laws cannot expect citizens to be willing to obey the laws rules and policies of its political and administrative system Governments that do not set a good example could seriously jeopardize their own credibility and integrity      Lafcadio Hearn in Japan Yoné Noguchi,Setsu Koizumi,Lafcadio Hearn,1910      Parliamentary Papers Great Britain.
