Using Emerging Technologies to Develop Professional Learning Jean Murray, Warren Kidd, 2017-10-02

Internationally there is a growing body of research about learners responses to and uses of emerging technologies However the adoption of these technologies in teachers professional development is still largely under researched Much of the existing literature still positions teachers as playing catch up in terms of using technology for teaching and learning in an ever expanding and changing world and ignores the roles that these emerging technologies can play in teacher and teacher educator development and learning This book aims to address the lack of research in the area and it contributes to the new knowledge area of how emerging technologies can effectively address professional learning drawing on case studies and perspectives from across the world Contributors use a wide variety of approaches to analyse the potential for emerging and established technologies including digital Web2 0 social media and IT tools to develop effective or deep professional learning for pre and in service teachers and teacher educators This book was originally published as a special issue of Professional Development in Education

Rethinking Classroom Participation Katherine Schultz, 2009-10-30 Katherine Schultz examines the complex role student silence can play in teaching and learning Urging teachers to listen to student silence in new ways this book offers real life examples and proven strategies for rethinking classroom participation to include all students those eager to raise their hands to speak and those who may pause or answer in different ways from publisher description Academics Engaging with Student Writing Jackie Tuck, 2017-07-14 Student writing has long been viewed as a problem in higher education in the UK Moreover the sector has consistently performed poorly in the National Student Survey with regard to assessment and feedback Academics Engaging with Student Writing tackles these major issues from a new and unique angle exploring the real life experiences of academic teachers from different institutions as they set support read respond to and assess assignments undertaken by undergraduate students Incorporating evidence from post 1992 universities Oxbridge members of the Russell Group and others this book examines working practices around student writing within the context of an increasingly market oriented mass higher education system Presenting a wealth of relevant examples from disciplines as diverse as History and Sports Science Tuck makes extensive use of interviews observations texts and audio recordings in order to explore the perspectives of academic teachers who work with student writers and their texts This book will be of interest to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the fields of academic literacies higher education language and literacy language in higher education English for academic purposes and assessment Furthermore academic teachers with experience of this crucial aspect of academic labour will welcome Tuck s pioneering work as an indispensable tool for making sense of their own engagement with student writers
