Veterans Exposed to Agent Orange: Legislative History, Litigation, and Current Issues

Congressional Research Congressional Research Service,2014-11-01 The U S Armed Forces used a variety of chemical defoliants to clear dense jungle land in Vietnam during the war Agent Orange named for the orange colored identifying stripes on the barrels was by far the most widely used herbicide during the Vietnam War Many Vietnam era veterans believe that their exposure to Agent Orange caused them to contract several diseases and caused certain disabilities including birth defects in their children and now their grandchildren The Department of Veterans Affairs VA received the first claims asserting conditions related to Agent Orange in 1977 Since then Vietnam era veterans have sought relief from Congress and through the judicial system Beginning in 1979 Congress enacted several laws to determine whether exposure to Agent Orange in Vietnam was associated with possible long term health effects and certain disabilities The Veterans Health Care Training and Small Business Loan Act P L 97 72 elevated Vietnam veterans priority status for health care at VA facilities by recognizing a veteran s own report of exposure as sufficient proof to receive medical care absent evidence to the contrary The Veterans Health Care Eligibility Reform Act of 1996 P L 104 262 completely restructured the VA medical care eligibility requirements for all veterans Under P L 104 262 a veteran does not have to demonstrate a link between a certain health condition and exposure to Agent Orange instead medical care is provided unless the VA determines that the condition did not result from exposure to Agent Orange This authority was permanently authorized by the Caregivers and Veterans Omnibus Health Services Act of 2010 P L 111 163 Likewise Congress passed several measures to address disability compensation issues affecting Vietnam veterans The Veterans Dioxin and Radiation Exposure Compensation Standards Act of 1984 P L 98 542 required the VA to develop regulations for disability compensation to Vietnam veterans exposed to Agent Orange In 1991 the Agent Orange Act P L 102 4 established a presumption of service connection for diseases associated with herbicide exposure P L 102 4 authorized the VA to contract with the Institute of Medicine IOM to conduct scientific reviews of the evidence linking certain medical conditions to herbicide exposure Under this law the VA is required to review the reports of the IOM and issue regulations establishing a presumption of service connection for any disease for which there is scientific evidence of a positive association with herbicide exposure Based on these IOM reports currently 15 health conditions are presumptively service connected Under current regulations a servicemember must have actually set foot on Vietnamese soil or served on a craft in its rivers also known as brown water veterans to be entitled to the presumption of exposure to Agent Orange Those who served aboard deep water naval vessels commonly referred to as Blue Water Navy veterans do not qualify for presumption of service connections for herbicide related conditions unless they can prove that the veteran s service included duty or visitation within the country of Vietnam itself or on its inland waterways Recently Vietnam era veterans have increasingly expressed concerns about all types of medical issues occurring in their children regardless of age and in successive generations Furthermore they have asserted that more research should be done on paternally mediated birth effects so that compensation policies might be developed similar to those that address maternally mediated birth effects of Vietnam era progeny

Committee to Review the Health Effects in Vietnam Veterans of Exposure to Herbicides, 1994 Have U.S. military personnel experienced health problems from being exposed to Agent Orange, its dioxin contaminants and other herbicides used in Vietnam? This definitive volume summarizes the strength of the evidence associating exposure during Vietnam service with cancer and other health effects and presents conclusions from an expert panel. Veterans and Agent Orange provides a historical review of the issue, examines studies of populations in addition to Vietnam veterans environmentally and occupationally exposed to herbicides and dioxin and discusses problems in study methodology. The core of the book presents What is known about the toxicology of the herbicides used in greatest quantities in Vietnam. What is known about assessing exposure to herbicides and dioxin. What can be determined from the wide range of epidemiological studies conducted by different authorities. What is known about the relationship between exposure to herbicides and dioxin and cancer, reproductive effects, neurobehavioral disorders and other health effects. The book describes research areas of continuing concern and offers recommendations for further research on the health effects of Agent Orange exposure among Vietnam veterans. This volume will be critically important to both policymakers and physicians in the federal government, Vietnam veterans and their families, veterans organizations, researchers and health professionals. Journal of the Senate of the United States of America United States.
