In recent years, our knowledge of what goes on in our Oceans has been transformed. Our planet is now cutting-edge laboratories in science and technology. To explore new worlds, vessels collecting creatures and extraordinary new genetic behaviors. As we journey through our deep seas, coral reefs, open ocean, green seas and coasts we make these extraordinary new discoveries. But we now know that ocean health is under threat. Never has there been a more crucial time to explore our remotest seas and to determine what the future will hold for our blue planet.

The Whale in the Living Room John Ruthven, 2021-06-17 The Whale in the Living Room follows the thrilling adventures of film maker John Ruthven as he travels the globe dives into our oceans and passionately recounts his life affirming experiences What creatures could remain undiscovered in the 95 per cent of the seas that have not been thoroughly explored How vast really are our oceans The surface of Mars and Venus are better known to us than Earth's seabed Yet to map the world's ocean to even 100 metre blocks of accuracy something that environmentalists say is essential for its protection could take another 300 years Even creatures that are known to us like the giant squid have proved too difficult to accurately capture on film Quite literally immersed in his subject John can help readers understand the magnitude of our planet's oceans and why it is so important for us to protect our seas and the creatures that inhabit them He is the only producer to have worked full time on both series of Blue Planet as well as nearly fifty other films about the sea Through his first hand experience John shows us the loneliness of whale calves in the deep blue the fear of seals as they dodge great white sharks near the coast or the curiosity of octopus staring back at us through the camera His book takes us through the blue rings of South Pacific coral atolls on submarine rides into the abyss with ancient life forms and up close and personal encounters with singing humpback whales that make you feel the water around you The Whale in the Living Room like the proverbial elephant in the room is also about how until recently we have been largely blind to our polluting of the seas John for example explores how plastic went wild in the ocean tries to understand how we got into this mess and see if we can ever untangle the oceans from its grip

Fishes Gene Helfman, Bruce Collette, 2011-11-01 One fish two fish red fish nearly thirty thousand species of fish or fishes as they are properly called when speaking of multiple species This is but one of many things the authors of this fascinatingly informative book reveal in answering common and not so common questions about this ubiquitous group of animals Fishes range in size from tiny gobies to the massive Ocean Sunfish which weighs thousands of pounds They live in just about every body of water on the planet Ichthyologists Gene Helfman and Bruce Collette provide accurate entertaining and sometimes surprising answers to over 100 questions about these water dwellers such as How many kinds of fishes are there Can fishes breathe air How smart are fishes and Do fishes feel pain They explain how bony fishes evolved the relationship between them and sharks and why there is so much color variation among species Along the way we also learn about the Devils Hole Pupfish which has the smallest range of any vertebrate in the world Lota lota the only freshwater fish to spawn under ice the Candiru a pencil thin Amazonian catfish that lodges itself in a very personal place on male bathers and must be removed surgically and many other curiosities With more than 100 photographs including two full color photo galleries and the most up to date facts on the world's fishes from two premier experts this fun book is the perfect bait for any curious naturalist angler or aquarist
