Chinese Poetic Writing Francois Cheng, 2017-03-28 The most innovative study of Chinese poetry ever written Francois Cheng's Chinese Poetic Writing now in its first expanded English language edition is an essential read for fans and scholars of Chinese literature and the art of poetry in general Since its first publication in French in 1977 Chinese Poetic Writing has been considered by many to be the most innovative study of Chinese poetry ever written as well as a profound and remarkable meditation on the nature of poetry itself As the American poet Gustaf Sobin wrote two years after the book's appearance. In France it is already considered a model of interdisciplinary research, a source book and a star in the very space it initially explored. Traced and elaborated, Cheng illustrates his text with an annotated anthology of 135 poems he has selected from the Tang dynasty, presented bilingually and with lively translations by Jerome P. Seaton. It serves as a book within the book and an excellent introduction to the golden age of Tu Fu, Li Po, Wang Wei, and company. The 1982 translation long out of print was based on the first French edition. Since then, Cheng has greatly expanded the book. This is the first English language edition of the expanded version with the original translators returning to accommodate the many new additions and revise their earlier work.

Classical Chinese Poetry David Hinton, 2010-02-02. This rich and far-reaching anthology of nearly five hundred poems provides a comprehensive account of the first three millennia of Chinese poetic tradition. Focuses on the major poets who worked and shaped the tradition, providing enough selections to recreate each as a unique voice. Introductions to each poet's work provide a readable history of ancient China's poetic traditions, told as a series of poetic innovations forged by a series of master poets. back cover Classic of Poetry Zhou Gong, 2014-02-20. The Classic of Poetry is the oldest existing collection of Chinese poetry, comprising 305 works dating from the 11th to 7th centuries BC. It is one of the Five Classics, traditionally said to have been compiled by Confucius and has been studied and memorized by scholars in China and neighboring countries over two millennia. Since the Qing dynasty, its rhyme patterns have also been analysed in the study of Old Chinese phonology. The content of the Poetry can be divided into two main sections: the Airs of the States and the Eulogies and Hymns. The Airs of the States are shorter lyrics in simple language that are generally ancient folk songs, while the Eulogies section tends to be longer, ritual or sacrificial songs, usually in the forms of courtly panegyrics and dynastic hymns.

Chinese Poetry and Translation Maghiel Crevel, Lucas Klein, 2025-10-01. Chinese Poetry and Translation: Rights and Wrongs offers fifteen essays on the triptych of poetry translation: Chinese, the collection, and the translator. The collection has three parts: The Translator's Take, Theoretics, and Impact. The conversation stretches from queer feminist engagement with China's newest poetry to philosophical and philological reflections on its oldest, and from Tang and Song dynasty classical poetry in Western languages to Baudelaire and Celan in Chinese. Translation is taken as an interlingual and intercultural act, and the essays foreground theoretical expositions and the practice of translation in equal but not opposite measure. Poetry has a transforming yet ever acute relevance in Chinese culture, and this makes it a good entry point for studying Chinese foreign encounters. Pushing past oppositions that still too often restrict discussions of translation: form versus content, elegance versus accuracy, and the original versus the translated, this volume brings a wealth of new thinking to the interrelationships between poetry translation and China. Stretching from queer feminist engagement with China's newest poetry to philological reflection on its oldest, this book brings a wealth of new thinking to the interrelationships between poetry translation and China.

The Book of Chinese Poetry Jing Shi, 1891 An Introduction to Chinese Poetry Michael Fuller, 2020-10-26 This innovative textbook for learning classical Chinese poetry moves beyond the traditional anthology of poems translated into English and instead brings readers including those with no knowledge of Chinese as close as possible to the texture of the poems in their original language The first two chapters introduce the features of classical Chinese that are important for poetry and then survey the formal and rhetorical conventions of classical poetry The core chapters present the major poets and poems of the Chinese poetic tradition from earliest times to the lyrics of the Song Dynasty 960 1279 Each chapter begins with an overview of the historical context for the poetry of a particular period and provides a brief biography for each poet. Each of the poems appears in the original Chinese with a word by word translation followed by Michael A Fuller's unadorned translation and a more polished version by modern translators. A question based study guide highlights the important issues in reading and understanding each particular text. Designed for classroom use and for self study the textbook's goal is to help the reader appreciate both the distinctive voices of the major writers in the Chinese poetic tradition and the grand contours of the development of that tradition.

The Works of Li Po, the Chinese Poet 卞,1922 February's Rose Bing Hua,2022-03-11

Bing Hua The Queen of Love Poetry award winning poet Bing Hua's poems center on lauding the love of life and the beauty of affection. With remarkable poetic lines she has created vital and extraordinary artistic realms. Thus in her way of sentiment language and rhythm she has freely and fully instilled the female's tender warm and affectionate feelings into the deep souls of her readers. She meticulously cultivates fragrant roses by a creek in a garden or even in the field of her whole life. In this she also cultivates beauty. She integrates her whole heart into nature to directly communicate with nature and submerge herself in the orderly and unordered boundless firmament. Her poetry is indeed commendable. It is a very unique and culture rich life experience and mental enlightenment.
