

A stylized illustration of a young girl with short black hair, wearing a bright red sleeveless dress and black shoes. She is standing on a dark, gnarled tree branch. Her right arm is raised, holding a large, empty, white speech bubble that floats above her head. The background consists of a dense forest of bare, dark trees under a pale, overcast sky. The overall tone is somber and contemplative.

"A graphic manifesto for female empowerment and a punch to the gut of predatory males."

Becoming Unbecoming Una:

Becoming Unbecoming Una, 2016-10-03 This extraordinary graphic novel is a powerful denunciation of sexual violence against women As seen through the eyes of a twelve year old girl named Una it takes place in northern England in 1977 as the Yorkshire Ripper a serial killer of prostitutes is on the loose and creating panic among the townspeople As the police struggle in their clumsy attempts to find the killer and the headlines in the local paper become more urgent a once self confident Una teaches herself to lower her gaze in order to deflect attention from boys After she is slut shamed at school for having birth control pills Una herself is the subject of violent acts for which she comes to blame herself But as the police finally catch up and identify the killer Una grapples with the patterns of behavior that led her to believe she was to blame Becoming Unbecoming combines various styles press clippings photo based illustrations and splashes of color to convey Una's sense of confusion and rage as well as sobering statistics on sexual violence against women The book is a no holds barred indictment of sexual violence against women and the shame and blame of its victims that also celebrates the empowerment of those able to gain control over their selves and their bodies Una a pseudonym is an artist academic and comics creator Becoming Unbecoming which took seven years to create is her first book She lives in the United Kingdom Eve: the new

Gilmore, Elizabeth Marshall, 2019-09-17 When more than 150 women testified in 2018 to the sexual abuse inflicted on them by Dr Larry Nassar when they were young competitive gymnasts they exposed and transformed the conditions that shielded their violation including the testimonial disadvantages that cluster at the site of gender youth and race In Witnessing Girlhood Leigh Gilmore and Elizabeth Marshall argue that they also joined a long tradition of autobiographical writing led by women of color in which adults use the figure and narrative of child witness to expose harm and seek justice Witnessing

Girlhood charts a history of how women use life narrative to transform conditions of suffering silencing and injustice into accounts that enjoin ethical response Drawing on a deep and diverse archive of self representational forms slave narratives testimonio memoir comics and picture books Gilmore and Marshall attend to how authors return to a narrative of traumatized and silenced girlhood and the figure of the child witness in order to offer public testimony Emerging within these accounts are key scenes and figures that link a range of texts and forms from the mid nineteenth century to the contemporary period Gilmore and Marshall offer a genealogy of the reverberations across timelines self representational acts and jurisdictions of the child witness in life writing Reconstructing these historical and theoretical trajectories restores an intersectional testimonial history of writing by women of color about sexual and racist violence to the center of life writing and in so doing furthers our capacity to engage ethically with representations of vulnerability childhood and collective witness

Documenting Trauma in Comics Dominic Davies, Candida Rifkind, 2020-05-21 Why are so many contemporary comics and graphic narratives written as memoirs or documentaries of traumatic events Is there a specific relationship between the comics form and the documentation and reportage of trauma How do the interpretive demands made on comics readers shape their relationships with traumatic events And how does comics documentation of traumatic pasts operate across national borders and in different cultural political and politicised contexts The sixteen chapters and three comics included in Documenting Trauma in Comics set out to answer exactly these questions Drawing on a range of historically and geographically expansive examples the contributors bring their different perspectives to bear on the tangled and often fraught intersections between trauma studies comics studies and theories of documentary practices and processes The result is a collection that shows how comics is not simply related to trauma but a generative force that has become central to its remembrance documentation and study
