

CHAPTER 10*Accounting for a Merchandising Business*SECTION 10.1 REVIEW QUESTIONS (page 401)

1. A service business sells a service to the general public but does not deal in merchandise. For example, a law firm is a service business.
2. A merchandising business buys goods and sells them at a profit. For example, a furniture store is a merchandising business.
3. A wholesaler buys goods that it sells to retailers. A retailer buys goods from wholesalers or manufacturers and sells them to the public.
4. The merchandise inventory of a drugstore is the goods for sale on the store shelves and in the storeroom.
5. Another name for merchandise inventory is stock-in-trade (stock for short).
6. The goods available for sale that are not on hand have been sold, lost, broken, or stolen.
7. Merchandise inventory is listed as a current asset on the balance sheet.
8. The cost of goods sold figure is important because it is the largest deduction from revenue for a merchandising business.
9. Gross profit is the difference between the cost price of the goods and their selling price, before deducting any operating expenses.
10. The periodic inventory system is used by businesses that have a large number of inventory items but choose to avoid the high cost of the perpetual system.
11. A small variety store would choose to use the periodic inventory system because it is easy to manage and less expensive than the perpetual inventory system.
12. The four steps of the inventory cycle are as follows. One: There is inventory at the beginning of the accounting period. Two: Merchandise is sold and moves out during the period. Three: Merchandise is purchased to replace items sold. Four: The inventory at the end of the accounting period is approximately equal to the inventory at the beginning.
13. The cost of goods sold formula is: Cost of goods sold = Cost of beginning inventory + Cost of merchandise purchased – Cost of ending inventory.
14. It is necessary to take a physical inventory when using the periodic inventory system because the financial statements cannot be prepared without an accurate count and value of the ending inventory for an accounting period.
15. Gross margin is also called the gross profit.
16. Margin is a percentage of the selling price while markup is a percentage of the cost price.
17. A limitation of the periodic inventory system is that financial statements cannot be accurately prepared unless the inventory is counted and valued.
