Normativity and Diversity in Family Law Nadjma Yassari, Marie-Claire Foblets, 2021-11-21 With regard to family law this volume examines claims based on cultural tradition ethnic background custom religious affiliation and sexual orientation as well as various other claims that are not officially recognized in state law in 15 jurisdictions around the world The country reports seek to determine whether these claims represent a challenge to family law as conceived by the state and if so how these challenges are being managed The focus lies on the interaction between i claims and traditions raising minority related and diversity related issues and ii the state as the addressee of these demands for accommodation The reports identify specific instances and situations that have proven and in many cases still are particularly difficult to resolve They force decision makers to engage in a delicate balancing act between different often clashing interests

The Child's Interests in Conflict Maarit Jänterä-Jareborg, 2016 The Child's Interests in Conflict addresses one of the most pressing issues of any multicultural society namely the conflicting demands on children from minority groups or children born to parents of different cultural or faith backgrounds What a family may consider to be in the child's best interest and welfare in court decisions may not be shared by society at large Each can be guided by faith culture and tradition Society can view the child as being exposed to a significant harm or to risk of harm if certain traditions are followed while in contrast parents can believe that their child is harmed or is in harm's way if that tradition is not respected Focusing on such circumstances in Europe the contributions in this book all written by internationally leading experts and with an interdisciplinary element address situations of conflict regarding a child's upbringing and education in general the shaping of a child's cultural or faith based identity underage marriages the circumcision of boys the role of faith and culture in society's placements of children outside the care of their family the role of faith in cross border child abduction and disputes over parental responsibilities Attention is paid to the case law of the European Court of Human Rights and to less well known national case law as well as to recent national legislation all of which show not only the complexity of the issues discussed but also the differing ways multicultural challenges are dealt with The book strives to answer inter alia how legal systems should navigate between the competing claims and conflicting interests without forgetting the main person to be protected namely the child and how the scope of tolerance recognition and autonomy should be defined Series European Family Law Vol 41 Subject European Law Human Rights Law Family Law Children's Law Socio Legal Studies

Gender Perspectives in Private Law Gabriele Carapezza Figlia, Ljubinka Kovačević, Eleonor Kristoffersson, 2023-02-15 This book discusses prominent and controversial gender related issues across the fields of family law tort law labour law civil procedure law ADR and private international law An important critical assumption made by the authors is that the gender equality perspective has been largely neglected in several branches of private law since scholars researching the intersection between gender and legal studies are mostly focused on public law and human rights law In light of that the book contributes not only to the deconstruction of gender blind private law but also to the development of a gender competent analysis of the key branches of private law starting with private international law Gender perspective in family law is analyzed on the basis of gendered and heteronormative operations of family law with reference to the formation of legally recognized relationships the establishment of legal parenthood the division of marital property after a divorce and the arrangements for post separation parenting Also regulation of family matters in Indian society and the gender equality perspective from the principle of the child's best interest are considered As far as tort law is concerned the book addresses compensation for damages suffered by women performing unpaid household work Further it contains papers dedicated to the following labour law issues the genesis of labor law and its capacity to contribute either to worsening gender inequality in the world of work or to promoting gender equality gender segregation in the labour market and its connection to family friendly policies in the European Union sexual harassment at work and the impact of work digitalization on gender related labour law issues Lastly the authors analyze gender equality in civil procedural law as well as in mediation as a tool for encouraging the peaceful settlement of disputes The book is intended to improve awareness of the wide range of private law issues that are important for understanding the ways in which gender inequality shapes everyday experiences while also presenting critical considerations of the key private law instruments for achieving gender equality Problem of Religious Diversity Tariq Modood, Anna
