

Chapter 10-Crime and Justice: Periodic Assessments

Any society that accepts social contract theory would have to make sure that the law is applied fairly, and that the society's government has a legitimate claim to the use of force over individuals. Therefore, governments follow strict procedures when it comes to the punishment of individuals who break the law.

1. Due Process is the idea that justice should be carried out according to strict legal procedures. It means that punishment must follow strict rules that are agreed upon.

Retributive Justice

This kind of justice is严厉的.

Restorative Justice

This is a concept that focuses on repairing damage.

Prison Sentencing

The following are three of the main factors in prison sentencing:

1. Crime and Offender Risk are important factors in sentencing. These factors affect the sentence that is given.

Consider the following two examples. Both offenders committed the same crime, but they would have prison sentences that reflect different factors in their lives. In the first example, the judge would give a longer sentence to the offender because the judge believes that the offender has a higher risk of committing another crime. However, in the second example, the judge would give a shorter sentence.

2. Reoffense is the chance of someone committing another crime. This is one factor in sentencing.

Prison Reform

This is a process that has been used to change a country's prison system to make it more effective.

Advantages of Capital Punishment

This is a controversial topic among people.

Advantages include the following: Capital punishment is a way to keep society safe from criminals, and it is a way to deter other criminals from committing crimes.

1. It Deters Crime by sending a clear message that the law is严厉的, and that the punishment for breaking the law is severe.
