the first time in the history of the world, the people of the United States have been called upon to determine whether they will submit to the law of force, and give up the right of self-government, and become a part of the empire of a foreign nation. We have, therefore, taken upon ourselves a solemn responsibility, to determine whether we shall submit to the dominion of the United States, or whether we shall, in the language of the Declaration of Independence, hold these truths to be self-evident, that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."
