Aphasiology

Clinical Aphasiology Martin Ball, Jack Damico, 2007-06-11 This book presents a collection of cutting edge work from leading researchers and clinicians around the world on a range of topics within Clinical Aphasiology. However, more than this, the volume is also a tribute to Chris Code, one of the foremost scholars in the field. Professor Code has made a galvanizing impact on the field as a savant, a motivator, and an impresario of trends which have resulted in several significant developments in the field. In the first chapter of this book, the editors outline the considerable contributions Chris Code has made to the area. The remaining contents have been divided into three main approaches to the study of aphasia, reflecting Professor Code's own interests. First are the contributions that fall under the heading of Conceptual Considerations. These are mainly interdisciplinary in nature, spanning linguistics, phonetics, psychology, and neurology, as well as social aspects of communication disorders. The second section of the book deals with Research Considerations, with chapters ranging from how the study of disrupted communication can inform models of normal language processing through tone production and processing in speakers with aphasia to anomia and progressive multifocal leukoencephalopathy. Each of these chapters explores different aspects of research methodology, including quantitative and qualitative research. The final section of the collection deals with Clinical Considerations, the chapters here cover counselling, computerized training, cultural and linguistic diversity in aphasia, right hemisphere disorders, and communication problems in the dementias. Clinical Aphasiology will be an invaluable tool for both students and practitioners in speech and language pathology, psychology, neurology, and related fields.

Aphasiology George Albyn Davis, 2007 Aphasiology: Disorders and Clinical Practice, 2nd edition offers a uniquely balanced and comprehensive presentation of aphasia, encompassing both theoretical study and clinical practice. Written in a highly accessible style, this text carefully explains and illustrates key paradigms in research and treatment. The author uses tables to summarize essential points and to provide historical overviews. Structured according to a course outline, the book begins with etiology and moves quickly to clinical assessment. It teaches diagnostic thinking with respect to the relationships between symptoms and hidden impairments in cognitive terms. This thinking is illustrated with research as well as more explicitly with assessments and treatments. Through this approach, a future clinician should acquire an appreciation for the scientific investigation that supports a clinical discipline. The Second Edition features updated information on many topics, such as functional assessments and treatments, including ethnography and outcome measures, and medical aspects and treatments. It keeps the text current and competitive in the field. It also includes a new chapter on dementias, supplements current chapters on other cognitive disorders, right hemisphere dysfunction, and traumatic brain injury. Each of these chapters includes additional information on rehabilitation, as well as up-to-date information on current research. The content has been reorganized within and between chapters to maximize readability and ease of use as a course text. Psycholinguistics background has been restructured to improve efficiency and readability of the text. Chapter 6 on Special Investigations has been eliminated from this edition and its topics have been redistributed improving the overall flow of the text Clinical aphasiology Conference on clinical aphasiology,1984 Forums in Clinical Aphasiology David J. Muller,Chris Code,2008-04-30 This work brings together a selection of Clinical Forum features from the journal Aphasiology The fora are designed to cover issues in clinical aphasiology which are central topical and controversial Each forum concerns a main article and a number of commentaries Neurolinguistics and Linguistic Aphasiology David Caplan,1987-08-20 A comprehensive introduction to the emerging fields of neurolinguistics and linguistic aphasiology stresses concepts from the contributing disciplines of neurology linguistics psychology and speech The Science of Aphasia Rehabilitation Chris Code,Donald Freed,2016-02-05 This book examines the rehabilitation of language disorders in adults presenting new research as well as expert insights and perspectives into this area The first chapter presents a study on personalised cueing to enhance word finding Cynthia K Thompson and her colleagues contribute a chapter describing The Northwestern Naming Battery and its use in examining for verb and noun deficits in stroke induced and primary progressive aphasia Heather Harris Wright and Gilson J Capilouto examine a multi level approach to understanding the maintenance of global coherence in aphasia Kathryn M Yorkston and colleagues provide discussion on the training of healthcare professionals and what speech and language pathology and medical education can learn from one another Yorkston also presents a systematic review asking whether principles of motor learning can enhance retention and transfer of speech skills Connie A Tompkins present a single participant experiment examining generalization of a novel treatment for coarse coding deficit in right hemisphere damage Finally Chris Code returns to the topic of apportioning time for aphasia treatment This book was originally published as a special issue of Aphasiology Cognitive Aphasiology - A Usage-Based Approach to Language in Aphasia Rachel Hatchard,2021-10-15 Aphasia is the most common acquired language disorder in adults resulting from brain damage usually stroke This book firstly explains how aphasia research and clinical practice remain heavily influenced by rule based generative theory and summarizes key shortcomings with this approach Crucially it demonstrates how an alternative the constructivist usage based approach can provide a more plausible theoretical perspective for characterizing language in aphasia After detailing rigorous transcription and segmentation methods it presents constructivist usage based analyses of spontaneous speech from people with various aphasia types challenging a clear cut distinction between lexis and grammar emphasizing the need to consider whole form storage and frequency effects beyond single words and indicating that individuals fall along a continuum of spoken language capability rather than differing categorically by aphasia type It provides original insight into aphasia with wide reaching implications for clinical practice while equally highlighting how the study of aphasia is important for the development of Cognitive Linguistics 29th Clinical Aphasiology Conference Kevin P. Kearns,2000 Papers in this volume were drawn from presentations at the 29th Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference in Key West Florida USA in June 1999 A Wide range of topics is included in the issue including a series of papers that address qualitative research methods in aphasia The broad range of clinical issues published in this special edition include investigations of individuals with aphasia right brain damage traumatic brain injury and apraxia of speech The contents of the journal will be of interest to experienced researchers and clinicians as well as students in training

Holland, 2005 This special issue of Aphasiology represents the papers accepted for publication which were among those presented at the 34th Clinical Aphasiology Conference held in Park City Utah in 2004 They have been peer reviewed and selected by a distinguished group of ad hoc editorial consultants from among the considerably larger number of papers and posters presented at the meeting itself The MIT Encyclopedia of Communication Disorders Raymond D. Kent, 2004 A major new reference work with entries covering the entire field of communication and speech disorders Number and Language Processing Xavier Seron, 2001 The relationship between language and number processing is discussed is discussed through the examination of the similarities and divergences of language and number disorders in aphasic subjects in patients with dementia and in children Aphasiology Patrick Doyle, 2002-05-02 The First Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference CAC was convened in Albuquerque in 1971 It was attended by a small group of primarily practicing clinicians dedicated to meeting the human service needs of their clients while recognizing the importance of contributing to the collective knowledge base of their discipline by providing empirical evidence supporting the links between their clinical interventions and outcomes Thirteen years later Barlow Hays and Nelson 1984 would describe in their now seminal publication The Scientist Practitioner an integrated model of applied behavioral research its strategies and methods and the role of the practitioner in the acquisition of knowledge directed toward improving clinical procedures and outcomes By this time 13 Volumes of CAC publications had already been published and comprised the single largest source of applied clinical data addressing the nature of aphasia and its clinical management These documents represented the product of the scientist practitioner model in action prior to its formalization by Barlow et al and provide a rich source of evidence supporting the efficacy of aphasia rehabilitation Unfortunately these and subsequent CAC publications remain unavailable to the larger clinical and scientific community due to their limited distribution Much has changed in the ensuing years Indeed many of the healthcare delivery systems in which aphasia rehabilitation is now practiced in 2002 severely restrict the frequency and duration of clinical services Increasingly practitioners are required to be more accountable for their clinical outcomes and to measure behavioral change in units that represent meaningful differences to consumers Now more than ever it is critical that the scientist practitioner model be promoted in order to better serve individuals with aphasia and to further advance the collective knowledge and evidence base of the discipline Now more than ever the available evidence needs to be disseminated as broadly as possible These goals are in keeping with the mission of CAC as envisioned by its founding members and remain the focused commitment of its many participants steering committee and publication board In keeping with these goals the papers that appear in this special edition of Aphasiology were selected based upon their theoretical importance clinical relevance and scientific merit from among the many platform and poster presentations comprising the 31st Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference held in Santa Fe New Mexico in 2001 Each paper was peer reviewed by the Editorial Consultants and Associate Editors acknowledged herein consistent with the standards of Aphasiology and the rigours of merit review that represent this indexed archival journal that is accessible to clinicians and scientists all over the world

Aphasiology Robert T. Wertz,Joseph R. Duffy,2001-03-15 Frederic L Darley was the consummate clinical scientist One cannot peruse the literature on neurogenic communication disorders without constantly encountering his name his work his influence His work was monumental The contributors of the seven papers in this issue of Aphasiology have long and impressive track records as researchers and clinicians Their papers are important because not only do they reflect how Darley s work has influenced diagnostic and patient management decisions but in some cases the contributors take issue with and or expand on his work This ability to question existing evidence was a trait that Fred Darley instilled in his students Equally important is that each paper tells us something about him as a person as a mentor who shaped careers and about the love and respect his students and colleagues had for him

Aphasia and Its Therapy

Anna Basso,2003-01-09 This is the first single authored book to attempt to bridge the gap between aphasia research and the rehabilitation of patients with this language disorder Studies of the deficits underlying aphasia and the practice of aphasia rehabilitation have often diverged and the relationship between theory and practice in aphasiology is loose The goal of this book is to help close this gap by making explicit the relationship between what is to be rehabilitated and how to rehabilitate it Early chapters cover the history of aphasia and its therapy from Broca s discoveries to the 1970s and provide a description of the classic aphasia syndromes The middle section describes the contribution of cognitive neuropsychology and the treatment models it has inspired It includes discussion of the relationship between the treatment approach and the functional model upon which it is based The final chapters deal with aphasia therapy After providing a sketch of a working theory of aphasia Basso describes intervention procedures for disorders resulting from damage at the lexical and sentence levels as well as a more general conversation based intervention for severe aphasics Anna Basso has run an aphasia rehabilitation unit for more than thirty years In this book she draws on her considerable experience to provide researchers clinicians and their students and trainees in speech language pathology and therapy aphasiology and neuropsychology with comprehensive coverage of the evolution and state of the art of aphasia research and therapy

Aphasia and Related Neurogenic Communication Disorders Papathanasiou,Patrick Coppens,2016-02-11 Aphasia and Related Neurogenic Communication

Disorders Second Edition reviews the definition terminology classification symptoms and neurology of aphasia including the theories of plasticity and recovery Best practices of aphasia assessment and intervention are presented including neuropsychological models and formal and informal testing procedures to maximize correct clinical rehabilitative decisions Theoretical bases for rehabilitation guidelines for organization and delivery of evidence based therapy as well as augmentative and alternative communication therapy and computer based treatments are also presented
