innovation in its category and is inexpensive relative to other janitorial bidding resources currently available to commercial

What would tempt you to whistleblow Do Codes of Conduct make organisations ethical How do people react to taking the blame for others This book answers such questions drawing on the views of employees in eight large organisations One finding is the whited sepulchre phenomenon an organisation which presents a squeaky clean image to the world but has intrinsic failings which cause moral dilemmas for staff While treatment of customers is regulated by Codes and Charters internal organisation is typically more anarchic The study also exposes the moral conflicts generated by party political machinations in organisations with democratic governance The book offers a unique perspective on ethical attitudes at work and reactions to responsibility and accountability It finds that although religious belief is declining strong moral beliefs still thrive and ethical employees abound It highlights the importance of empowerment procedures and professionalism in creating the moral organisation This original study will interest practitioners in business the public sector and NGOs

W. Meek, Ulf Zimmermann, 2017-09-29 Initiated and governed by property or business owners under the authorization of state and local governments business improvement districts (BIDs) have received a very mixed reception. To some they are innovative examples of self governance and public private partnerships; to others they are yet another example of the movement toward the privatization of what should be inherent government responsibilities. Among the first books to present a collection of scholarly work on the subject Business Improvement Districts: Research, Theories and Controversies brings together renowned leaders in the field to compile the highest quality theoretical, legal and empirical studies into one comprehensive volume. Investigating fundamental concerns at the core of the debate as well as potential solutions, this groundbreaking resource tackles the need for improved problem solving and efficiency in service delivery. Examines new and innovative policy tools for both the public and private sectors. Evaluates whether BIDs do ignore the needs and voices of residential property owners. Discusses the challenge created by social segregation in cities. Addresses lack of accountability by BIDs to the public and elected representatives. From different perspectives, leading practitioners and academics analyze the pros and cons of BIDs both in the United States and around the world. They look at their impact on urban planning and retail revitalization, consider their legal implications and explore ways to measure BID performance. Filled with case studies of urban centers including San Diego, Atlanta, New York, Toronto and Capetown and state models such as New Jersey and Pennsylvania, this examination brings together essential information for researchers as well as those leaders and policy makers looking to adopt a BID model or improve one already in place.
