Interdisciplinarity, Multidisciplinarity and Transdisciplinarity in Humanities Eugene Steele,2016-02-29 The domination of single subjects in academic programmes and institutions has recently been called into question Literary studies are currently opening themselves up to the epistemological renewal that other fields can offer They are increasingly borrowing theoretical tools from other subjects in order to analyse the historical socio political and institutional conditions of the production of literary texts to identify the general discursive circumstances in which they emerge and to study the relationship between literature and other media Similarly while subjects such as sociology history and political science have always been closely related if not literally spinoffs from one another as in the case of sociology vis vis anthropology what becomes of their specificities when they borrow from geography to address space related issues from psychology to understand social actors individual motivations or from literary studies to make sense of individual or collective narratives The present volume accounts for experiments in research that overstep disciplinary boundaries by analysing the new fields and methodologies emerging in the contemporary globalised academic environment which puts a strong premium on synergism and linkages Moreover it assesses current theoretical reflections on inter multi and transdisciplinarity as well as research grounded in it and measures their impact on the evolution of scholarship and curriculum in the fields of literature language and humanities

Interactive Political Leadership Eva Sørensen,2020-01-09 Building on recent theories of interactive governance and political leadership Interactive Political Leadership develops a concept of interactive political leadership and a theoretical framework for studying the role of elected politicians in the age of governance The purpose of the theoretical framework is to inspire and guide empirical research into how elected politicians perform political leadership in a society where citizens and other stakeholders play an active role in making and implementing political decisions and what barriers challenges and dilemmas they encounter in relation to the performance of interactive political leadership The research framework draws extensively on recent theories of interactive governance and political leadership and other new developments in political science and public administration research Moreover it finds inspiration in current tendencies and embryonic examples of interactive political leadership performed by elected politicians operating at different levels of governance in Western liberal democracies The basic assumption is that political legitimacy is essential for the survival of a political system and that interactive political leadership stands out as a promising way of securing what political scientists denote as input throughput output and outcome legitimacy in the age of governance Hence interactive political leadership aims to establish a bridge between representative democracy and emergent forms of political participation to promote political learning and accountability to strengthen the political entrepreneurship of elected politicians and to advance the political system s
