Preston,2022-05-03 Ordinary people can perform acts of astonishing selflessness sometimes even putting their lives on the line A pregnant woman saw a dorsal fin and blood in the water and dove right in to pull her wounded husband to safety Remarkably some even leap into action to save complete strangers one New York man jumped onto the subway tracks to rescue a boy who had fallen into the path of an oncoming train Such behavior is not uniquely human Researchers have found that mother rodents are highly motivated to bring newborn pups not just their own back to safety What do these stories have in common and what do they reveal about the instinct to protect others In The Altruistic Urge Stephanie D Preston explores how and why we developed a surprisingly powerful drive to help the vulnerable She argues that the neural and psychological mechanisms that evolved to safeguard offspring also motivate people to save strangers in need of immediate aid Eye catching dramatic rescues bear a striking similarity to how other mammals retrieve their young and help explain more mundane forms of support like donating money Merging extensive interdisciplinary research that spans psychology neuroscience neurobiology and evolutionary biology Preston develops a groundbreaking model of altruistic responses Her theory accounts for extraordinary feats of bravery all too common apathy and everything in between and it can also be deployed to craft more effective appeals to assist those in need

Violence, Visual Culture, and the Black Male Body Cassandra

Jackson,2011-04-13 From early photographs of disfigured slaves to contemporary representations of bullet riddled rappers images of wounded black men have long permeated American culture While scholars have fittingly focused on the ever present figure of the hypermasculine black male little consideration has been paid to the wounded black man as a persistent cultural figure This book considers images of wounded black men on various stages including early photography contemporary art hip hop and new media Focusing primarily on photographic images Jackson explores the wound as a specular moment that mediates power relations between seers and the seen Historically the representation of wounded black men has privileged the viewer in service of white supremacist thought At the same time contemporary artists have deployed the figure to expose and disrupt this very power paradigm Jackson suggests that the relationship between the viewer and the viewed is not so much static as fluid and that wounds serve as intricate negotiations of power structures that cannot always be simplified into the condensed narratives of victims and victimizers Overall Jackson attempts to address both the ways in which the wound has been exploited to patrol and contain black masculinity as well as the ways in which twentieth century artists have represented the wound to disrupt its oppressive implications Forgiveness or Revenge? Restitution or Retribution?

Sheila Bibb,2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2015 The authors of this volume seek to understand the paradoxes which so often arise when an action warrants either forgiveness or revenge on the part of the wronged individual or group

Cancer Victor R Preedy,2014-03-01 Cancer

Oxidative Stress and Dietary Antioxidants bridges the trans disciplinary divide and covers in a single volume the science of oxidative stress in cancer and then the potentially therapeutic usage of natural antioxidants in the diet or food matrix The processes within the science of oxidative stress are described in concert with other processes such as apoptosis cell signaling and receptor mediated responses This approach recognizes that diseases are often multifactorial and that oxidative stress is a single component of this Oncologists cancer researchers and nutritionists are separated by divergent skills and professional disciplines that need to be bridged in order to advance preventative as well as treatment strategies While oncologists and cancer researchers may study the underlying pathogenesis of cancer they are less likely to be conversant in the science of nutrition and dietetics On the other hand nutritionists and dietitians are less conversant with the detailed clinical background and science of oncology This book addresses this gap and brings each of these disciplines to bear on the processes inherent in the oxidative stress of cancer Nutritionists can apply information related to mitochondrial oxidative stress in one disease to diet related strategies in another unrelated disease Dietitians can prescribe new foods or diets containing anti oxidants for conditions resistant to conventional pharmacological treatments Dietitians after learning about the basic biology of oxidative stress will be able to suggest new treatments to their multidisciplinary teams Nutritionists and dietitians will gain an understanding of cell signaling and be able to suggest new preventative or therapeutic strategies with anti oxidant rich foods
