The Shape of Power

Karen Lemmey, Tobias Wofford, Grace Yasumura, 2024-11-12 A major new survey of American sculpture exploring how it both reflects and redefines concepts of race and identity in the United States How does American sculpture intersect with the history of race in the United States The three dimensional qualities of sculpture give it a distinct advantage over other art forms in capturing a subject's likeness and our minds can swiftly conjure a body and racialize it from the most minimal of prompts The Shape of Power examines the role of American sculpture from the nineteenth century to today in understanding and constructing the concept of race in the United States and how this medium has shaped the way generations have learned to visualize and think about race Exploring the relationship between sculpture and ideas about race in the United States this book provides fresh perspectives on artists ranging from Hiram Powers Edmonia Lewis and Augusta Savage to Barbara Chase Riboud Titus Kaphar Raven Halfmoon Sanford Biggers Betye Saar Yolanda Lpez and Simone Leigh It reveals how sculptors use this versatile medium to challenge discriminatory ideologies and entrenched social and cultural constructions of race while offering bold new visions of community identity and selfhood Featuring superb illustrations of sculptural works in a broad range of media The Shape of Power contributes new scholarship to the understudied field of American sculpture which hasn't been the subject of a major publication survey in more than fifty years Published in association with the Smithsonian American Art Museum Washington DC

Painting the Inhabited Landscape

Margaretta M. Lovell, 2023-03-27 The impulse in much nineteenth century American painting and culture was to describe nature as a wilderness on which the young nation might freely inscribe its future the United States as a virgin land that is unploughed unfenced and unpainted Insofar as it exhibited evidence of a past its traces pointed to a geologic or cosmic past not a human one The work of the New England artist Fitz H Lane however was decidedly different In this important study Margaretta Markle Lovell singles out the more modestly scaled explicitly inhabited landscapes of Fitz H Lane and investigates the patrons who supported his career with an eye to understanding how New Englanders thought about their land their economy their history and their links with widely disparate global communities Lane's works depict nature as productive and allied in partnership with humans to create a sustainable balanced political economy What emerges from this close look at Lane's New England is a picture not of a virgin wilderness but of a land deeply resonant with its former uses and a human history that incorporates rather than excludes Native Americans as shapers of land and as agents in that history Calling attention to unexplored dimensions of nineteenth century painting Painting the Inhabited Landscape is a major intervention in the scholarship on American art of the period examining how that body of work commented on American culture and informs our understanding of canon formation

Cars, Dominique de Font-Réaulx, Édouard Papet, 2010 Gérôme was one of the most famous artists of his day yet throughout his career he was the object of polemical debate and harsh criticism Long stigmatized as the embodiment of sterile academicism he is now considered to be one of the greatest painters of the nineteenth century Gérôme's interest in Antiquity his theatrical approach to history painting and his complex relationships with the Orient and with the new medium of photography all contributed to his highly inventive imagery Acquired by American collectors at an early date Gérôme's oeuvre fired the new world's historical imagination and even inspired its favorite medium the movies This catalogue traces Gérôme's unique career and features his major works from history paintings to polychrome sculptures thereby casting the nineteenth century in a new light Page 4 of cover

Arthur Dove Rachael Z. DeLue, 2016-03-16 Arthur Dove often credited as America's first abstract painter created dynamic and evocative images inspired by his surroundings from the farmland of upstate New York to the North Shore of Long Island But his interests were not limited to nature Challenging earlier accounts that view him as simply a landscape painter Arthur Dove Always Connect reveals for the first time the artist's intense engagement with language the nature of social interaction and scientific and technological advances Rachael Z DeLue rejects the traditional assumption that Dove can only be understood in terms of his nature paintings and association with photographer and gallerist Alfred Stieglitz and his circle Instead she uncovers deep and complex connections between Dove's work and his world including avant garde literature popular music meteorology mathematics aviation and World War II Arthur Dove also offers the first sustained account of Dove's Dadaesque multimedia projects and the first explorations of his animal imagery and the role of humor in his art Beautifully illustrated with works from all periods of Dove's career this book presents a new vision of one of America's most innovative and captivating artists and reimagines how the story of modern art in the United States might be told
