Knowledge and Change in African Universities Michael Cross, amasa ndofirepi, 2017-01-28 Besides the ongoing concern with the epistemological and theoretical hegemony of the West in African academic practice the book aims at understanding how knowledge is produced and controlled through the interplay of the politics of knowledge and current intellectual discourses in universities in Africa In this regard the book calls for African universities to relocate from the position of object to subject in order to gain a form of liberated epistemological voice more responsive to the social and economic complexities of the continent In itself this is a critical exposé of contemporary practices in knowledge advancement in the continent Broadly the book addresses the following questions How can African universities reinvent knowledge production and dissemination in the face of the dominant Eurocentricism so pervasive and characteristic of academic practice in Africa to enhance their relevance to the contexts in which they operate How can such change particularly at knowledge production and distribution levels be undertaken without falling into an intellectual and discursive ghettoization in the global context What then is the role of academics policy makers and curriculum and program designers in dealing with biases and distortions to integrate policies knowledge and pedagogy that reflect current cultural diversity both local and global Against this backdrop while some contributions in this book argue that emancipatory epistemic voice in African universities is not yet born or it is struggling with little success many dissenting voices charge that if Africans do not take responsibility and construct knowledge strategies for their own emancipation who will

Accommodating Muslims under Common Law Salim Farrar, Ghena Krayem, 2016-07-15 The book explores the relationship between Muslims the Common Law and Shar'ah post 9/11 The book looks at the accommodation of Shar'ah Law within Western Common Law legal traditions and the role of the judiciary in particular in drawing boundaries for secular democratic states with Muslim populations who want resolutions to conflicts that also comply with the dictates of their faith Salim Farrar and Ghena Krayem consider the question of recognition of Shar'ah by looking at how the flexibilities that exists in both the Common Law and Shar ah provide unexplored avenues for navigation and accommodation The issue is explored in a comparative context across several jurisdictions and case law is examined in the contexts of family law business and crime from selected jurisdictions with significant Muslim minority populations including Australia Canada England and Wales and the United States The book examines how Muslims and the broader community have framed their claims for recognition against a backdrop of terrorism fears and how Common Law judiciaries have responded within their constitutional and statutory confines and also within the contemporary contexts of demands for equality neutrality and universal human rights Acknowledging the inherent pragmatism flexibility and values of the Common Law the authors argue that the controversial issue of accommodation of Shar ah is not necessarily one that requires the establishment of a separate and parallel legal system

Wearing the Niqab Anna Piela, 2021-01-14 Bringing niqab wearers voices to the fore discussing their narratives on religious agency identity social interaction community and urban spaces Anna Piela situates women s accounts firmly within UK and US socio political contexts as well as within media discourses on Islam The niqab has recently emerged as one of the most ubiquitous symbols of everything that is perceived to be wrong with Islam barbarity backwardness exploitation of women and political radicalization Yet all these notions are assigned to women who wear the niqab without their consultation niqab debates are held without their voices being heard and when they do speak their views are dismissed However the picture painted by the stories told here demonstrates that for these women religious symbols such as the niqab are deeply personal freely chosen multilayered and socially situated Wearing the Niqab gives voice to these women and their stories and sets the record straight enhancing understanding of the complex picture around niqab and religious identity and agency

The South African State Transformed? Louis A. Picard, Thomas M. Mogale, Caitlin C. Corrigan, 2024-09-10 This book examines the nature of the 1994 political transition in South Africa and its impact on post apartheid South Africa Specifically it examines the failures of liberalism within the context of the transitional process that led to the institution if not the practice of a non racial state in 1994 The term liberal is an eclectic term defining a several of views political and economic We use the term here within context but essentially define it as a commitment to open views the willingness to consider change and to value basic human rights The nature of institutional change in South Africa as it moved towards a democratic state would influence whether South Africa would succeed as a newly industrializing pluralist democratic country or collapse into yet another African failed state As South Africa moves toward its fourth decade of majority rule the view towards the future is much less promising than it was in 1994

Political Campaigns in the United States Richard K. Scher, 2016-02-19 A Choice Highly Recommended Title January 2017 This book is an interpretive analysis of political campaigns in America instead of focusing on how campaigns are designed and run it investigates the role campaigns play in our American politics and the close symbiosis between campaigns and those politics The text examines how campaigns are an important manifestation of how we do politics in this country Hallmarks of this text include showing how campaigns can undermine our democracy and asking how democratic they are and by extension our politics really are demonstrating that the ability of the media to accurately fairly and deeply report on campaigns has been severely compromised both because of the growing distance between campaigns and media outlets and because of the structure of Big Media corporate ownership and its tight relationship to Big Money It asks important questions about the media including How do the media reporters in particular cover campaigns What pressures and forces shape what and how they present campaigns What is the impact of the ever increasing chasm separating campaigns and the media How does the close tie between corporate mainstream media and Super PAC money affect campaign coverage How does the ability of campaigns and media to segment voters into ever smaller slices influence how campaigns are covered tracking the continuing growth of unregulated private unaccountable dark money in campaigns as a threat to our democratic elections and politics Democracy rests fundamentally on transparency and accountability sunlight and our campaign laws and norms now allow and encourage exactly the opposite largely because of decisions by the United States Supreme Court
