Beyond Experiments In Development Economics Local Economy Wide Impact Evaluation:

Beyond Experiments in Development Economics J. Edward Taylor, Mateusz J. Filipowski, 2014 Provides readers with a methodology to evaluate the impacts of a wide diversity of development projects and policies on local economies together with a diversity of applications of these tools from poverty programs to global price shocks irrigation projects eco tourism migration production subsidies and government corruption From Evidence to Action Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-10-18 Cash transfers have become a key social protection tool in developing countries and have expanded dramatically in the last two decades However the impacts of cash transfers programmes especially in Sub Saharan Africa have not been substantially documented This book presents a detailed overview of the impact evaluations of these programmes carried out by the Transfer Project and FAO s From Protection to Production project The 14 chapters include a review of eight country case studies Kenya Ghana Ethiopia Zambia Zimbabwe Lesotho Malawi South Africa as well as a description of the innovative research methodologies political economy issues and good practices to design cash transfer programmes The key objective of the book is to enhance the understanding of these development programmes how they lead to a broad range of social and productive impacts and also of the role of programme evaluation in the process of developing policies and implementing programmes Modelling the Economic Impact of the Rohingya Influx in Southern

Bangladesh Mateusz Filipowski, Ernesto Tiburcio, Paul Dorosh, John Hoddinott, Gracie Rosenbach, 2019-09-04 In the context of the massive influx of Forcibly Displaced Myanmar Nationals to Bangladesh this paper aims to evaluate the potential consequences on the Southern Bangladesh economy It adopts an economywide perspective to study the impacts of increased labor supply and increased consumer demand in a general equilibrium framework using a Local Economy wide Impact Evaluation LEWIE model The model is used to illustrate the potential effect of a large arrival of displaced populations on wages the supply and demand of goods and incomes of migrant and host populations Simulations enable comparisons between possible scenarios including two options for the size of the market being impacted either the smaller Cox s Bazar District or the larger Chittagong Division and several options for aid provisions from international actors The databases used are the Forcibly Displaced Myanmar Nationals FDMN and Host Community Household Survey carried out by IFPRI BIDS WFP and ACF in late 2018 and the official Bangladesh Household Income and Expenditure Survey HIES 2016 We find that if the migrants enter the Cox Bazar labor markets only their large number could potentially lead to a large drop in wage levels of around 30% However under similar conditions their impact in the much larger Chittagong Division would be limited to a drop of less than 4% Cash transfers to migrants could mitigate the wage effects by stimulating local demand but this effect is limited Some local households may be hurt due to lower wages and higher prices Matched transfers to local populations and investments in local industry could potentially offset some of these negative impacts Ex-ante evaluation of home-grown school feeding in Senegal Kagit, J., Tian, J., Taylor, J.E., Daidone, S., Pellegrini, F., 2023-04-13 Home grown school feeding programmes have seen a considerable growth around the world. These programmes play a key role in supporting the improvement of child health and facilitating access to education as well as in stimulating economic development through local procurement. The rigorous evaluation of the effects of these programmes on children and local economy poses several challenges due to the presence of multiple treatment arms, complex targeting criteria and the difficulties from lack of treatment randomization. This report presents the results of a simulation analysis of different food procurement modalities employed by Senegal's current school feeding programme (SFP) by using local economy wide impact evaluation (LEWIE). The LEWIE methodology was designed to capture both the direct and the indirect impacts of a wide range of governmental programmes and policies in local economies. The findings suggest that SFPs in Senegal have significant positive impacts on production and income within a 10 km radius of beneficiary schools. These impacts grow as SFPs increase their sourcing from local traders and food producers.

International Handbook of Migration and Population

Distribution Michael J. White, 2015-12-11. This Handbook offers a comprehensive collection of essays that cover essential features of geographical mobility from internal migration to international migration to urbanization to the adaptation of migrants in their destinations. Part I of the collection introduces the range of theoretical perspectives offered by several social science disciplines while also examining the crucial relationship between internal and international migration. Part II takes up methods ranging from how migration data are best collected to contemporary techniques for analyzing such data. Part III of the handbook contains summaries of present trends across all world regions. Part IV rounds out the volume with several contributions assessing pressing issues in contemporary policy areas. The volume's editor, Michael J. White, has spent a career studying the pattern and process of internal and international migration, urbanization and population distribution in a wide variety of settings from developing societies to advanced economies. In this Handbook, he brings together contributors from all parts of the world, gathering in this one volume both geographical and substantive expertise of the first rank. The Handbook will be a key reference source for established scholars as well as an invaluable high level introduction to the most relevant topics in the field for emerging scholars.

Essentials of Development Economics J. Edward Taylor, Travis J.

Lybbert, 2015-03-19. Written to provide students with the critical tools used in today's development economics research and practice, Essentials of Development Economics represents an alternative approach to traditional textbooks on the subject. Compact and less expensive than other textbooks for undergraduate development economics courses, Essentials of Development Economics offers a broad overview of key topics and methods in the field. Its fourteen easy-to-read chapters introduce cutting edge research and present best practices and state-of-the-art methods. Each chapter concludes with an embedded QR code that connects readers to ancillary audiovisual materials and supplemental readings on a website curated by the authors. By mastering the material in this book, students will have the conceptual grounding needed to move on to higher level development economics courses.
