bridge decks Four major types of stay in place SIP forms using fiber reinforced concrete FRC or fiber reinforced polymer FRP materials were investigated fiber reinforcements grid reinforcements bar reinforcements and pultruded profiles The results were used to develop a model design and construction specification for non structural non metallic SIP forms in highway bridge decks

Quantification of Building Seismic Performance Factors, 2009 This report describes a recommended methodology for reliably quantifying building system performance and response parameters for use in seismic design The recommended methodology referred to herein as the Methodology provides a rational basis for establishing global seismic performance factors SPFs including the response modification coefficient R factor the system overstrength factor and deflection amplification factor Cd of new seismic force resisting systems proposed for inclusion in model building codes The purpose of this Methodology is to provide a rational basis for determining building seismic performance factors that when properly implemented in the seismic design process will result in equivalent safety against collapse in an earthquake comparable to the inherent safety against collapse intended by current seismic codes for buildings with different seismic force resisting systems

Progress of Recycling in the Built Environment Enric Vázquez, 2012-11-08 This report is a useful tool for countries starting to recycle aggregates or construction and demolition waste It contains the latest developments in this field introduces a completely new approach to the procedure of proportioning concrete mixtures with recycled aggregate references recent publications opinions and discrepancies in relation to the durability of recycled concrete such as freeze thaw standards studies of chloride penetration and diffusion and sulfate attacks the use of the fine fraction This volume will be of interest to recyclers researchers and consumers

Vande Voort, Muhannad T. Suleiman, Sri Sritharan, 2008 The strategic plan for bridge engineering issued by AASHTO in 2005 identified extending the service life and optimizing structural systems of bridges in the United States as two grand challenges in bridge engineering with the objective of producing safer bridges that have a minimum service life of 75 years and reduced maintenance cost Material deterioration was identified as one of the primary challenges to achieving the objective of extended life In substructural applications e g deep foundation construction materials such as timber steel and concrete are subjected to deterioration due to environmental impacts Using innovative and new materials for foundation applications makes the AASHTO objective of 75 years service life achievable Ultra High Performance Concrete UHPC with compressive strength of 180 MPa 26 000 psi and excellent durability has been used in superstructure applications but not in geotechnical and foundation applications This study explores the use of precast prestressed UHPC piles in future foundations of bridges and other structures An H shaped UHPC section which is 10 in 250 mm deep with weight similar to that of an HP 10x57 steel pile was designed to improve constructability and reduce cost In this project instrumented UHPC piles were cast and laboratory and field tests were conducted Laboratory tests were used to verify the moment curvature response of UHPC pile section In the field two UHPC piles have been successfully driven in glacial till clay soil and load tested under vertical and lateral loads This report provides a complete set of results for the field investigation conducted on UHPC H shaped piles Test results durability drivability and other material advantages over normal concrete and steel indicate that UHPC piles are a viable alternative to achieve the goals of AASHTO strategic plan Engineering Journal, 2008 The Massachusetts register, 2008-08-22
