Acid In The Environment Lessons Learned And Future Prospects:

Acid in the Environment Gerald R. Visgilio, Diana M. Whitelaw, 2007-04-13 The Goodwin Niering Center for Conservation Biology and Environmental Studies at Connecticut College is a comprehensive interdisciplinary program that builds on one of the nation's leading undergraduate environmental studies programs. The Center fosters research education and curriculum development aimed at understanding contemporary ecological challenges. One of the major goals of the Goodwin Niering Center involves enhancing the understanding of both the College community and the general public with respect to ecological, political, social, and economic factors that affect natural resource use. To this end, the Center has offered five conferences at which academicians, representatives of federal and state government, and individuals from non-government environmental organizations are brought together for an in-depth interdisciplinary evaluation of important environmental issues. On April 1 and 2, 2005, the Center presented the Elizabeth Babbott Conant interdisciplinary conference on Acid in the Environment: Lessons Learned and Future Prospects. The Connecticut Institute of Water Resources at the University of Connecticut, the Connecticut Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, and the Connecticut Sea Grant College Program joined the Center as conference sponsors. During the past twenty-five years, acid rain, formally referred to as acid deposition, has been the focus of much political debate and scholarly research. Acid deposition occurs when important precursor pollutants such as sulfur dioxide (SO₂) and nitrogen oxides (NO_x) mix with water vapor and oxidants in the atmosphere and fall back to earth in either wet or dry form.

The Center fosters research education and curriculum development aimed at understanding contemporary ecological challenges. One of the major goals of the Goodwin Niering Center is to enhance the understanding of both the College community and the general public with respect to ecological, political, social, and economic factors that affect natural resource use and preservation of natural ecosystems. To this end, the Center has offered six conferences at which academicians, representatives of federal and state government, people who depend on natural resources for their living, and individuals from non-government environmental organizations were brought together for an in-depth interdisciplinary evaluation of important environmental issues. On April 6 and 7, 2007, the Center presented the Elizabeth Babbott Conant interdisciplinary conference on Saving Biological Diversity: Weighing the Protection of Endangered Species vs. Entire Ecosystems. The Beaver Brook Foundation, Audubon Connecticut, the state office of the National Audubon Society, the Connecticut Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, Connecticut Forest and Park Association, and the Connecticut Sea Grant College Program joined the Center as conference sponsors. During this two-day conference, we learned about conservation and endangered species from a wider range of perspectives Like all of the conferences sponsored by the Goodwin Niering Center this conference was broadly interdisciplinary with presentations by economists political scientists and conservation biologists
