

PRESENTATION CONVERSATION 8.2.2.2

Presenting your findings It is important to make sure that your findings are presented in a clear and logical way. This means that you should have a clear structure for your presentation, and that you should use appropriate language and terminology. You should also make sure that your presentation is well-rehearsed, and that you have time to answer questions from the audience. Finally, you should use appropriate techniques such as diagrams, tables, and graphs to help you to present your findings in a clear and concise manner.

Presenting your findings is an important skill that you will need to develop as you progress through your degree programme.
