Becoming Human Our Past Present And Future:

Becoming Human Scientific American Editors, 2013-09-23 Becoming Human Our Past Present and Future by the Editors of Scientific American We humans are a strange bunch We have self awareness and yet often act on impulses that remain hidden We were forged in adversity but live in a world of plenty How did we get here What is to become of us To these age old questions science has in recent years brought powerful tools and reams of data and in this eBook Becoming Human Our Past Present and Future we look at what these data have to tell us about who we are We know for instance that three million years ago a group of primates known as the australopithecines was walking capably on two legs the better to navigate the African savanna and yet still had long arms suited to life in the trees In Section One Becoming Us we search for how and why this and other transitions occurred In Lucy's Baby author Kate Wong discusses what the oldest juvenile skeleton tells us about how early humans walked the Earth Another article The Naked Truth examines why humans lost their hair and how hairlessness was a key factor in developing other human traits Section Two covers The Secrets of our Success and we see that human evolution and culture are often related In The Evolution of Grandparents Rachel Caspari shows us that as humans started to live longer grandparents played a role in family life which in turn made possible more complex social behaviors In Section Three Migration and Colonization we look at how scientists are studying the minuscule bits of DNA that differ from one individual to another for clues to our origins and settlements The First Americans illustrates the findings that have pushed back the date at which hunter gatherers colonized the Americas And in Section Four Vanished Humans the discovery of hobbits a human species of small stature has turned the science of human origins on its ear Where is evolution taking us We present two points of view in Section Five Our Continuing Evolution In How We Are Evolving Jonathan K Pritchard argues that selection pressure typically acts over tens of thousands of years which means we probably won't evolve much anytime soon But stasis is only one possible future says Peter Ward in What May Become of Us In adapting to new environments say a colony on Mars our human species may eventually diverge into two or more Or we could go the cyborg route and merge with machines Whichever option you prefer there is plenty to ponder Becoming Human Chad Wellmon, 2010-01-01 Examines the crisis of a late eighteenth century anthropology as it relates to the emergence of a modern consciousness that sees itself as condemned to draw its norms and very self understanding from itself Provided by publisher

Media Infrastructures and the Politics of Digital Time Axel Volmar, Kyle Stine, 2025-10-01 In a crucial sense all machines are time machines The essays in Media Infrastructures and the Politics of Digital Time develop the central concept of hardwired temporalities to consider how technical networks hardwire and rewire patterns of time Digital media introduce new temporal patterns in their features of instant communication synchronous collaboration intricate time management and continually improved speed They construct temporal infrastructures that affect the rhythms of lived experience and shape social relations and practices of cooperation Interdisciplinary in method and international in scope the volume draws together insights from media and communication studies cultural studies and science and technology studies while staging an important encounter between two distinct approaches to the temporal patterning of media infrastructures a North American strain emphasizing the social and cultural experiences of lived time and a European tradition prominent especially in Germany focusing on technological time and time critical processes

Riverlands of the Anthropocene Margaret Somerville, 2020-05-27 This is an invitation to readers to ponder universal questions about human relations with rivers and water for the precarious times of the Anthropocene The book asks how humans can learn through sensory embodied encounters with local waterways that shape the architecture of cities and make global connections with environments everywhere The book considers human becomings with urban waterways to address some of the major conceptual challenges of the Anthropocene through stories of trauma and healing environmental activism and encounters with the living beings that inhabit waterways Its unique contribution is to bring together Australian Aboriginal knowledges with contemporary western new materialist posthuman and Deleuzian philosophies foregrounding how visual creative and artistic forms can assist us in thinking beyond the constraints of western thought to enable other modes of being and knowing the world for an unpredictable future Riverlands of the Anthropocene will be of particular interest to those studying the Anthropocene through the lenses of environmental humanities environmental education philosophy ecofeminism and cultural studies
