Ambulance Services Paresh Wankhade, Kevin Mackway-Jones, 2015-09-19 This volume provides fresh insights and management understanding of the changing role of the ambulance services against the backdrop of massive cuts in health budgets around the world and the changing context of pre-hospital care within the wider healthcare networks. The challenges of funding training and cultural transformation are now felt globally. The need to learn and adapt from suitable models of ambulance service delivery have never been greater. The book offers critical insights into the theory and practice of strategic and operational management of ambulance services and the leadership needs for the service. One of the highlights of this volume is to bring together scholarship using experts academics, practitioners and professionals in the field to each of the chosen topics. Paresh Wankhade is Professor of Leadership and Management at Edge Hill University UK. Kevin Mackway Jones is the Medical Director at North West Ambulance Service NHS Trust UK. Endorsements. This unique and valuable publication charts the history and development of the ambulance service in England over the last hundred years or so. The role of this key emergency service has always been important and arguably never more so than today. The contributing authors have not only provided the reader with great insights into where the service has come from and the leadership challenges it has and continues to face, it also gives examples of how the future could look as our journey of transformation continues. Peter Bradley CBE MBA and author of Taking Healthcare to the Patient 2005 Chief Executive Officer St John National Headquarters New Zealand. With a year-on-year increase in demand for emergency ambulances and over 9 million calls annually, the UK Ambulance Service must change from its emergency care and transport focus model. With the increase in professionalism of paramedics and an uplift in assessment and clinical skills, the modern paramedic is increasingly able to treat at home, direct patients with alternative care pathways and avoid transportation to overburdened Emergency Departments. Whilst there is some historical and cultural resistance to change, there is a need for further development in clinical skills and a new perspective for the future Ambulance Service. This book brings together practitioners, managers, academics and provides a broad understanding of the major management issues in the UK Ambulance Service. It includes the history of the Ambulance Service, quality and risk management issues, commissioning, leadership, intra-operability and the shape of the future ambulance service. The content will be of interest to students, practitioners and academics. Sir Keith
