This volume reproduces writings social teachings testimonies and reports of figures as diverse as Karl Marx Victor Hugo Charles Dickens and Mark Twain and bodies such as the US Congress Extracted material charts the development of an international system of copyright regulation and the growth in the 20th century of copyright industries benefitting from new copyright laws In the second half of the 19th century many writers and thinkers like Marx attacked capital and its corollary property rights Some writers such as Victor Hugo while exposing the horrors of poverty and social alienation demanded for authors rights of property The modern system of copyright substantially originates from the efforts of Hugo and others Articles by leading US copyright scholars such as Jessica Litman and Tim Wu explain the development of copyright law in the 20th century and are complemented by reproduction of key copyright cases in the US and UK as well the primary copyright legislation in those countries Contributors examine critically whether copyright law in the 20th century developed to encourage information dissemination or enable producers to control the supply of information for super profit

Congressional Hearings Prior to March 4, 1921, in the Library of the United States United States. Congress. Senate. Library, 1921 Digital Copyright Jessica Litman, Professor Litman's work stands out as well researched doctrinally solid and always piercingly well written JANE GINSBURG Morton L Janklow Professor of Literary and Artistic Property Columbia University Litman's work is distinctive in several respects in her informed historical perspective on copyright law and its legislative policy her remarkable ability to translate complicated copyright concepts and their implications into plain English her willingness to study understand and take seriously what ordinary people think copyright law means and her creativity in formulating alternatives to the copyright quagmire PAMELA SAMUELSON Professor of Law and Information Management Director of the Berkeley Center for Law Technology University of California Berkeley In 1998 copyright lobbyists succeeded in persuading Congress to enact laws greatly expanding copyright owners control over individuals private uses of their works The efforts to enforce these new rights have resulted in highly publicized legal battles between established media and new upstarts In this enlightening and well argued book law professor Jessica Litman questions whether copyright laws crafted by lawyers and their lobbyists really make sense for the vast majority of us Should every interaction between ordinary consumers and copyright protected works be restricted by law Is it practical to enforce such laws or expect consumers to obey them What are the effects of such laws on the exchange of information in a free society Litman s critique exposes the 1998 copyright law as an incoherent patchwork She argues for reforms that reflect common sense and the way people actually behave in their daily digital interactions This paperback edition includes an afterword that comments on recent developments such as the end of the Napster story the rise of peer to peer file sharing the escalation of a full fledged copyright war the filing of lawsuits against thousands of individuals and the June 2005 Supreme Court decision in the Grokster case Jessica Litman Ann Arbor MI is professor of law at Wayne State University and a widely recognized expert on copyright law
