Site Management of Building Services Contractors Jim Wild, 2002-09-11 Managing building services contractors can prove to be a minefield. The most successful jobs will always be those where building site managers have first built teams focused on tackling issues that might cause adversarial attitudes later on and jeopardize the project. The author shows how a simple common management approach can improve site managers' competency in overseeing building services contractors, sub-traders and specialists and maximize the effectiveness of time spent on building services. Faber and Kell's Heating and Air Conditioning of Buildings Doug Oughton, P L Martin, 2012-05-23 Faber and Kell has for over fifty years been accepted as the most practical and comprehensive book on heating and air conditioning design and is regarded as the standard reference book for both students and practitioners. In order to provide up to date information this ninth edition has been revised to include the latest changes to system design and covers many aspects in greater depth whilst still retaining the character of previous editions. Building services engineers, architects and others involved in the construction industry will find no better place for accessible and easily assimilated information on all aspects of the heating and air conditioning of buildings revised throughout including a new chapter on natural ventilation and new information on facade engineering including photovoltaics. Full comparative summary of all air conditioning techniques makes this the essential reference for the professional.

Common mistakes are highlighted and the reader directed to an extensive range of further reading.
