Mutisya,2010 The Aviation industry has developed extensively since its establishment by the Wright Brothers in 1903 Over time the highly male dominated industry experienced significant changes to incorporate female aviators Determined women initiated this process through participating in the aircraft engineering sector and pursuing careers as pilots However these women faced various challenges which resulted in setbacks to their effective growth in the industry In fact vital issues encountered in the past are still present and often overlooked in today s aviation industry Therefore identifying these problems and proposing solutions with effective corrective measures is necessary to increase and motivate female pilots globally

Pioneers of Flight Bieke Gils,2009

In Their Own Words Fred Erisman,2021-01-15 Amelia Earhart's prominence in American aviation during the 1930s obscures a crucial point she was but one of a closely knit community of women pilots Although the women were well known in the profession and widely publicized in the press at the time they are largely overlooked today Like Earhart they wrote extensively about aviation and women's causes producing an absorbing record of the life of women fliers during the emergence and peak of the Golden Age of Aviation 1925 1940 Earhart and her contemporaries however were only the most recent in a long line of women pilots whose activities reached back to the earliest days of aviation These women too wrote about aviation speaking out for new and progressive technology and its potential for the advancement of the status of women. With those of their more recent counterparts their writings form a long sustained text that documents the maturation of the airplane aviation and women's growing desire for equality in American society. In Their Own Words takes up the writings of eight women pilots as evidence of the ties between the growth of American aviation and the changing role of women. Harriet Quimby 1875-1912, Ruth Law 1887-1970, and the sisters Katherine and Marjorie Stinson 1893-1977, 1896-1975, came to prominence in the years between the Wright brothers and World War I. Earhart 1897-1937, Louise Thaden 1905-1979, and Ruth Nichols 1901-1960, were the voices of women in aviation during the Golden Age of Aviation. Anne Morrow Lindbergh 1906-2001, the only one of the eight who legitimately can be called an artist, bridges the time from her husband's 1927 flight through the World War II years and the coming of the Space Age. Each of them confronts issues relating to the developing technology and possibilities of aviation. Each speaks to the importance of assimilating aviation into daily life. Each details the part that women might and should play in advancing aviation. Each talks about how aviation may enhance women's participation in contemporary American society, making their works significant documents in the history of American culture.
