Alice Waters Cooks Up a Food Revolution Diane Stanley, 2022-01-18 From the team behind the acclaimed Ada Lovelace Poet of Science comes a delicious and lively Booklist starred review nonfiction picture book biography about pioneering chef Alice Waters who kickstarted the organic food movement Whenever young Alice Waters tasted something delicious like the sun warmed berries from her family s garden or a crisp ripe apple picked straight from the tree she would remember it for the rest of her life Later as she tasted many more wonderful foods she realized what made them so good they were fresh and ripe grown or made the old fashioned way When Alice grew up she opened a restaurant called Chez Panisse As part of her quest to make delicious food Alice sought out small local farmers to provide the meat dairy and produce The restaurant made her famous but it did much more than that it started a food revolution Today home cooks and chefs alike are all discovering the simple secret to the Best Food Ever This book is a celebration of food cooking and the woman whose curiosity and devotion to flavor kickstarted America's interest in buying local organic food Six Women Who Shaped What

Americans Eat Michelle Mart, 2025-07-15 Six Women Who Shaped What Americans Eat tells the story of how food choice in modern America has been influenced by culture industrial abundance and health narratives Mart reflects on the careers of six women to illustrate the varied and overlapping influences on food choice Each of these women had a substantial impact on American cuisine attitudes toward food and what people chose to eat They highlighted the politics of food the pleasure of food the connection between food and health and the environmental harm of poor food choices Part one of the book discusses the bounties of the modern American food system and covers Hazel Stiebeling Poppy Cannon and Julia Child Stiebeling was a chemist and government nutritionist beginning in the 1930s and shaped dietary guidelines and school lunches that affected generations of Americans Cannon a best selling cookbook author and newspaper columnist gained fame in the 1950s by preaching the wonders of processed food Child another cookbook author and television personality starting in the 1960s celebrated French cuisine and made it accessible to American cooks and palates Part two examines the hidden costs of abundance and covers Frances Moore Lapp Marion Nestle and Alice Waters Lapp was an author and activist concerned with the environmental impact of food in the late 20th century and who is credited with bringing vegetarianism into the mainstream Nestle was an academic nutritionist government consultant and author who decried the undue influence of food corporations Waters a celebrity chef restaurateur and food activist became a symbol of alternative food movements in the 21st century Provided by publisher 40 Years of Chez Panisse: The Power of Gathering Alice Waters, 2011-08-23 Chez

Panisse opened its doors in 1971 Founded by Alice Waters the restaurant is rooted in her conviction that the best tasting food is organic locally grown and harvested in ecologically sound ways by people who are taking care of the land for future generations The quest for such ingredients has always determined the restaurant's cuisine and over the course of forty years Chez Panisse has helped create a community of local farmers and ranchers whose dedication to sustainable agriculture assures the restaurant a steady supply of fresh and pure ingredients In Forty Years of Chez Panisse The Power of Gathering Alice takes readers on her journey from the humble and visionary beginnings of the restaurant through its rise and the acclaim to the Caf and the influential Chez Panisse Foundation Organized by decade the book includes a wealth of archival material and photographs menus invitations pictures of Alice at the restaurant and around the world with those who have passed through her life and interviews from public figures and cooks who have been inspired by or mentored at the restaurant This tribute to the delicious food revolution that began with Alice Waters and Chez Panisse is an important work for anyone who cares about food sustainability and the powerful legacy that Alice has built A School Lunch Revolution

Alice Waters, 2025-10-14 In this multigenerational cookbook for adults and children alike Alice Waters the award winning chef and food activist champions an empowered relationship between students and organic food offering delicious recipes that will nourish future generations and ourselves from the inside out Education and food are two universal rights all children deserve to go to school and everyone should have the opportunity to eat nutritious food After Alice Waters launched the farm to table movement with the opening of her acclaimed restaurant Chez Panisse she went on to found the Edible Schoolyard Project inspiring schools to source their food from local regenerative farmers and developing an edible education that would transform the school food experience for children worldwide Now in A School Lunch Revolution the culinary icon reimagines the way we feed our children at school and at home Beginning with what we cook in our kitchens this book offers the first step to teaching the next generation the lifelong values of eating whole foods Inspired by international food traditions these versatile recipes explore an array of textures and tastes guided by the principles Waters believes compose memorable organic meals local and seasonal affordable diverse simple and delicious and beautiful From one of the nation's most beloved chefs here is a revolutionary reinterpretation of the classic school lunch for a more sustainable future We Are What We Eat

Alice Waters, 2022-06-07 From chef and food activist Alice Waters an impassioned plea for a radical reconsideration of the way each and every one of us cooks and eats In We Are What We Eat Alice Waters urges us to take up the mantle of slow food culture the philosophy at the core of her life's work When Waters first opened Chez Panisse in 1971 she did so with the intention of feeding people good food during a time of political turmoil Customers responded to the locally sourced organic ingredients to the dishes made by hand and to the welcoming hospitality that infused the small space human qualities that were disappearing from a country increasingly seduced by takeout frozen dinners and prepackaged ingredients Waters came to see that the phenomenon of fast food culture which prioritized cheapness availability and speed was not only ruining our health but also dehumanizing the ways we live and relate to one another Over years of working with regional farmers Waters and her partners learned how geography and seasonal fluctuations affect the ingredients on the menu as well as about the dangers of pesticides the plight of fieldworkers and the social economic and environmental threats posed by industrial farming and food distribution So many of the serious problems we face in the world today from illness to social unrest to economic disparity and environmental degradation are all at their core connected to food Fortunately there is an antidote Waters argues that by eating in a slow food way each of us like the community around her restaurant can be empowered to prioritize and nurture a different kind of culture one that champions values such as biodiversity seasonality stewardship and pleasure in work This is a declaration of action against fast food values and a working theory about what we can do to change the course As Waters makes clear every decision we make about what we put in our mouths affects not only our bodies but also the world at large our families our communities and our environment We have the power to choose what we eat and we have the potential for individual and global transformation simply by shifting our relationship to food All it takes is a taste The Taste for Civilization Janet A. Flammang, 2009-10-06 This book explores the idea that table activities the mealtime rituals of food preparation serving and dining lay the foundation for a proper education on the value of civility the importance of the common good and what it means to be a good citizen The arts of conversation and diplomatic speech are learned and practiced at tables and a political history of food practices recasts thoughtfulness and generosity as virtues that enhance civil society and democracy In our industrialized and profit centered culture however foodwork is devalued and civility is eroding Looking at the field of American civility Janet A Flammang addresses the gendered responsibilities for foodwork s civilizing functions and argues that any formulation of civil society must consider food practices and the household To allow space for practicing civility generosity and thoughtfulness through everyday foodwork Americans must challenge the norms of unbridled consumerism work life balance and domesticity and caregiving Connecting political theory with the quotidian activities of the dinner table Flammang discusses practical ideas from the delicious revolution and Slow Food movement to illustrate how civic activities are linked to foodwork and she points to farmers markets and gardens in communities schools and jails as sites for strengthening civil society and degendering foodwork
