Deduction Systems Rolf Socher-Ambrosius, Patricia Johann, 2012-12-06 The idea of mechanizing deductive reasoning can be traced all the way back to Leibniz who proposed the development of a rational calculus for this purpose But it was not until the appearance of Frege's 1879 Begriffsschrift not only the direct ancestor of contemporary systems of mathematical logic but also the ancestor of all formal languages including computer programming languages Dav83 that the fundamental concepts of modern mathematical logic were developed Whitehead and Russell showed in their Principia Mathematica that the entirety of classical mathematics can be developed within the framework of a formal calculus and in 1930 Skolem Herbrand and Godel demonstrated that the first order predicate calculus which is such a calculus is complete i.e. that every valid formula in the language of the predicate calculus is derivable from its axioms Skolem Herbrand and Godel further proved that in order to mechanize reasoning within the predicate calculus it suffices to Herbrand consider only interpretations of formulae over their associated universes We will see that the upshot of this discovery is that the validity of a formula in the predicate calculus can be deduced from the structure of its constituents so that a machine might perform the logical inferences required to determine its validity With the advent of computers in the 1950s there developed an interest in automatic theorem proving
