Agricultural Practices and Policies for Carbon Sequestration in Soil John M. Kimble, Rattan Lal, Ronald F. Follett, 2016-04-19 The potential to mitigate greenhouse gas emissions and global climate change is one factor driving agricultural policy development of programs that might pay farmers for practices with a high potential to sequester carbon. With chapters by economists, policy makers, farmers, land managers, energy company representatives, and soil scientists, this book provides a comprehensive overview of the current state of the science, explores the development of policies and plans to improve carbon management, and provides examples of technology and agroecosystem management practices. It includes the latest updates in carbon neutral farming, carbon and energy management, and addresses the knowledge gap between input management, livestock management, and agroecosystem management. Advancing agroecosystem science through a roadmap for improving capacity, Agriculture Toward Net Zero Emissions is a valuable resource for those seeking to develop and apply new agricultural best practices. Provides insights into agriculture's role in reaching Sustainable Development Goals through improved practices. Includes diverse agroecosystems for broad and translational insights and applications. Promotes transition to cleaner energy sources, including the role of regulation.

Plans and Policies for Soil Organic Carbon Management in Agriculture Ram Swaroop Meena, Cherukumalli Srinivasa Rao, Arvind Kumar, 2022-10-21 This edited book discusses how effective soil carbon management plans and policies will ultimately make agriculture more secure against climate change and soil degradation. It is focused on initiatives to enhance soil organic carbon (SOC) and sequestration by launching different schemes and programs. An approach based on practical aspects of managing SOC in agriculture is provided with clear and concise descriptions. It has more attention to successfully implement plans and policies to meet the required level of SOC restoration. The book is covering the urgent needs of plans and policies for soil management and C restoration in agricultural ecosystems, which can be beneficial to food nutrition, environment, and economy security. Agriculture Toward Net Zero Emissions Sandeep Kumar, Ram Swaroop Meena, 2025-03-27 Agriculture Toward Net Zero Emissions explores how agriculture has historically contributed to carbon emissions and then takes the reader forward, offering insights into an integrated approach to reducing those emissions toward the COP26 goal. The dual challenge of increasing production to meet population and nutrition food demands while reducing the traditional emissions generated by production practices is significant. It requires understanding the foundation of current practices and then revising those underlying principles to reflect the resources and greater insights of today. This book provides an overview of the current state of the science, explores the development of policies and plans to improve carbon management, and provides examples of technology and agroecosystem management practices. It includes the latest updates in carbon neutral farming, carbon and energy management, and addresses the knowledge gap between input management, livestock management, and agroecosystem management.
