AIDS Doesn't Discriminate, So Why Do We? Joel Savage, 2013-05 Benta lives in a little apartment in the Lake District on the outskirts of one of the beautiful cities in the Scandinavia Denmark Aarhus She soon becomes seriously ill after being diagnosed with AIDS Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome The stigma surrounding the disease causes many of Benta s friends and family to desert her Kofi an illegal immigrant willingly accepts the task of caring for Benta and marries her with hopes of remaining in Denmark Benta s condition eventually worsens and she is admitted to the hospital Kofi receives word of her death and faces the possibility of deportation to Africa Due to the discrimination Kofi faces regarding his care for an AIDS patient he questions whether he did the right thing I Don t Have AIDS which is dedicated to HIV AIDS victims worldwide eliminates the fears of caring for such patients and brings the human side to the forefront Black America,

Not in This America James Calloway, 2011-07-26 Black America Not in This America is the foundation for ushering in a new era of Black Society One built upon hope and inspiration instead of despair and hatred My own narrated life story coincides with and sheds contemporary light upon the trials and tribulations as well the dreams and aspirations of the Black community as a whole It contains the blueprint for the resurrection of the Black American population That brings forth and lays bare the many silent epidemics facing America Ignorance crime drugs black on black crime lack of positive role models lack of education hope and will power Civic Participation and Community Action Sourcebook Andy Nash, 2003

Learning to Trust Paul Sendziuk, 2003 2003 marks the twentieth anniversary of the first case of HIV AIDS in Australia Working from an extensive array of documents and interviews with key participants Australia s response to the epidemic is examined to establish why it has been one of the most effective responses in the world God Doesn't Make Trash Barbara Rose Brooker, 2001-03-21 In Publisher s Weekly April 23 2001 issue the industry magazine spotlighted the LGBT book scene in 2001 In his article prefacing a list of nearly 200 selected Gay and Lesbian titles Charles Hix stated Significantly the number of books dealing primarily with AIDS is down compared to 2000 AIDS is now more likely to be treated as an incidental fact not a focus Indeed scanning the titles and descriptions of the books listed in the article I counted only eight titles that spoke of AIDS specifically There appears to be little interest anymore in the personal stories of those lost Indeed it takes the stature of an Edmund White to even interest a major publisher in another collection of cenotaphs What then do we make of Barbara Rose Brooker s brave little book recounting the stories of friends and acquaintances long dead from AIDS The book s title comes from a conversation Brooker had with former Marlboro Man and later AIDS model Christian Haren Brooker a struggling novelist with two young daughters had been a reluctant but loving witness to her next door neighbor s early agonizing victimization and discrimination preceeding his death from the virus and its complications In an effort to fulfill a promise to her friend Brooker sets about taping interviews with AIDS patients in a half hearted attempt to document their stories Christian Haren was her first interviewee Galvanized by anger and illness co opted by the nascent AIDS response movement as a poster child Haren is in a unique position to usher Brooker to the Castro and San Francisco General Hospital's earliest AIDS ward in the rapidly blackening early days of the pandemic Constantly Haren pushes her to listen to record to write Alternately cajoling and hectoring the dying Haren manages to inspire the straight Jewish liberal Brooker to undertake a project which was to haunt her for the following fifteen years The product of that haunting some twenty nine chapters profiling men and women gay and straight in the grips of a time and a disease is really as much a portrait of middle class America's dawning awareness of and helpless witness to the pandemic as it is of the dying's The dying themselves are vibrantly recalled in Brooker's tender elegaic chronicalling but it is the portrait of Brooker herself that is most compelling Her journey from sympathetic bystander to paralyzed witness to stoic promise keeper is a genuine document of a time and a place that seems unfortunately to have an expired shelf life That is the pity and the promise of this fine little book Pity that it might easily go unread and ignored for now but it promises to be a classic for the times to come I have written before that history is most intimately experienced by small people in small places We are lucky to have this small history now and waiting again in a huge unknown future by Jay Quinn Lambda Book Report July August 2001 New York Magazine, 1987-09-28 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea
