Handbook of Contemporary Group Psychotherapy Robert H. Klein, Harold S. Bernard, David L. Singer, 1992 This book constitutes the first comprehensive effort to bridge the gap between contemporary psychoanalytic theory and group psychotherapy practice. While many practitioners have difficulty applying contemporary theoretical concepts to individual psychotherapy there are at least a number of efforts to do so in the extant literature. The present volume represents the first systematic effort to identify the relevance of object relations theory, self psychology, and social systems theory to the conduct of group treatment. These theoretical schools represent the major elaborations of psychoanalytic theory over the past thirty years. Their major concepts and underlying assumptions are complex and experienced by many as difficult to understand. The authors who have contributed to this volume have been chosen because of their ability to explain their theoretical positions lucidly and to make clear the applicability of their perspectives to day to day clinical work. The book is rich with clinical vignettes from actual group therapy sessions; this allows the reader to see how theoretical constructs can be used in concrete ways to help patients change and grow. The book is divided into three sections: Recent Theoretical Developments, Clinical Applications to Patient Care, and The Role of the Therapist. Each section includes a summary chapter which highlights the points of convergence and divergence among the three perspectives discussed. The book ends with a concluding chapter which assesses the current status of attempts to integrate current psychoanalytic theory with the practice of group psychotherapy.

Systems-Centered Practice Yvonne M. Agazarian, 2020-06-16 Systems Centered Practice presents a series of papers that trace the development of the theory of living human systems between 1987 and 2002. As the theory develops so do the methods and techniques that put it into practice. The book also describes in detail the connection between the hierarchy of defence modification and the specific phases of system development that determine readiness for change. The papers in this volume contribute to our knowledge of the permeability of the boundaries between clinical and social psychology through the investigation of living human systems and of systems centered group and individual therapy. The author's considerable body of work constitutes a blend of creativity and learning of the highest order.
