API<sup>TM</sup> 28 Exam Overview

Summary: The basic information about the API<sup>TM</sup> 28 exam is provided below. If you have learned any of the API<sup>TM</sup> 28 exam prior to taking the API<sup>TM</sup> 28 exam, questions are formulated on a much broader subject. The questions are often based on basic, as well as more advanced, underwriting topics, rather than the more specific underwriting topics that are covered on the API<sup>TM</sup> 28 exam.

The following table summarizes the major focus of the exam, as well as some, in particular, underwriting requirements, such as property, liability, life, and accident and health insurance, and non-insurance topics. We want to fully understand the underwriting concepts, areas of responsibility, and the types of questions that will be asked on the exam. It will be great practice to focus on understanding each of the sections based on given categories. At the back of the exam, there will be three sections of general and one general problem. It will be your job to find the one strong general or one strong, one of the questions that might focus on the exam to "test" the following concepts covered by the examination topics described in the table.

We present the following list of questions. The best way to prepare for this is to take notes and list out all underwriting considerations and requirements, topics, highlights, and focus areas that might affect your study to ensure that you cover all aspects of the API<sup>TM</sup> 28 exam.
