Essentials of Community-based Research Vera Caine, 2016 Community based research CBR is the most commonly used method for serving community needs and effecting change through authentic ethical and meaningful social research In this brief introduction to CBR the real world approach of noted experts Vera Caine and Judy Mill helps novice researchers understand the promise and perils of engaging in this research tradition This book outlines the basic steps and issues in the CBR process from collaboratively designing and conducting the research with community members to building community capacity covers how to negotiate complicated questions of researcher control and ethics includes a chapter written by community partners among the examples from numerous projects from around the world Ethical Issues in Community-based Research with Children and Youth Bonnie J. Ross Leadbeater, Elizabeth Bannister, Cecilia Benoit, Anne Marshall, Mikael Jansson, Ted Riecken, 2006-01-01 Efforts to apply ethical guidelines and regulations to vulnerable populations are often problematic Consequently health and social scientists sometimes shy away from the challenges of research particularly when it means addressing value laden social problems such as sexuality drugs and racism Ethical Issues in Community Based Research with Children and Youth is a collection of essays that describe the uniqueness of community based research outlining several of the ethical concerns that it engenders The contributors examine such issues as the scope of informed consent to multiple stakeholders determining competence to give consent in marginalized populations and managing dual roles as participant researchers The collection suggests that a more collaborative ongoing and discursive approach is needed by researchers and by ethical review boards to ensure that research on sensitive social problems with high risk populations is supported and also conducted with a clear understanding of the highest ethical standards possible The Community-based Doula Rachel Abramson, Ginger K. Breedlove, Beth Isaacs, 2006 Methods in Community-Based Participatory Research for Health Barbara A. Israel, 2005-07-07 Written by distinguished experts in the field this book shows how researchers practitioners and community partners can work together to establish and maintain equitable partnerships using a Community Based Participatory Research CBPR approach to increase knowledge and improve health and well being of the communities involved CBPR is a collaborative approach to research that draws on the full range of research designs including case study etiologic longitudinal experimental and nonexperimental designs CBPR data collection and analysis methods involve both quantitative and qualitative approaches What distinguishes CBPR from other approaches to research is the active engagement of all partners in the process This book provides a comprehensive and thorough presentation of CBPR study designs specific data collection and analysis methods and innovative partnership structures and process methods This book informs students practitioners researchers and community members about methods and applications needed to conduct CBPR in the widest range of research areas including social determinants of health health disparities health promotion community interventions disease management health services and environmental health
