Foundations of Data Science with Python John M. Shea, 2024-02-22 Foundations of Data Science with Python introduces readers to the fundamentals of data science including data manipulation and visualization probability statistics and dimensionality reduction This book is targeted toward engineers and scientists but it should be readily understandable to anyone who knows basic calculus and the essentials of computer programming It uses a computational first approach to data science the reader will learn how to use Python and the associated data science libraries to visualize transform and model data as well as how to conduct statistical tests using real data sets Rather than relying on obscure formulas that only apply to very specific statistical tests this book teaches readers how to perform statistical tests via resampling this is a simple and general approach to conducting statistical tests using simulations that draw samples from the data being analyzed The statistical techniques and tools are explained and demonstrated using a diverse collection of data sets to conduct statistical tests related to contemporary topics from the effects of socioeconomic factors on the spread of the COVID 19 virus to the impact of state laws on firearms mortality This book can be used as an undergraduate textbook for an Introduction to Data Science course or to provide a more contemporary approach in courses like Engineering Statistics However it is also intended to be accessible to practicing engineers and scientists who need to gain foundational knowledge of data science

Key Features

- Applies a modern computational approach to working with data
- Uses real data sets to conduct statistical tests that address a diverse set of contemporary issues
- Teaches the fundamentals of some of the most important tools in the Python data science stack
- Provides a basic but rigorous introduction to Probability and its application to Statistics
- Offers an accompanying website that provides a unique set of online interactive tools to help the reader learn the material

Braids, Conformal Module, Entropy, and Gromov's Oka Principle Burglind Jöricke, 2025-01-31 This book studies the relation between conformal invariants and dynamical invariants and their applications taking the reader on an excursion through a wide range of topics The conformal invariants called here the conformal modules of conjugacy classes of elements of the fundamental group were proposed by Gromov in the case of the twice punctured complex plane They provide obstructions to Gromov's Oka Principle The invariants of the space of monic polynomials of degree n appeared earlier in relation to Hilbert's 13th Problem and are called the conformal modules of conjugacy classes of braids Interestingly the conformal module of a conjugacy class of braids is inversely proportional to a popular dynamical invariant the entropy which was studied in connection with Thurston's celebrated theory of surface homeomorphisms This result proved here for the first time is another instance of the numerous manifestations of the unity of mathematics and it has applications After prerequisites on Riemann surfaces braids mapping classes and elements of Teichmüller theory a detailed introduction to the entropy of braids and mapping classes is given with thorough sometimes new proofs Estimates are provided of Gromov's conformal invariants of the twice punctured complex plane and it is shown that the upper and lower bounds differ by universal multiplicative constants. These imply estimates of the entropy of any pure three braid and yield quantitative statements on the limitations of Gromov's Oka Principle in the sense of finiteness theorems using conformal invariants which are related to elements of the fundamental group not merely to conjugacy classes. Further applications of the concept of conformal module are discussed. Aimed at graduate students and researchers, the book proposes several research problems.

De Rham Cohomology of Differential Modules on Algebraic Varieties Yves André, Francesco Baldassarri, 2012-12-06. This is a study of algebraic differential modules in several variables and of some of their relations with analytic differential modules. Let us explain its source. The idea of computing the cohomology of a manifold in particular its Betti numbers by means of differential forms goes back to E. Cartan and G. De Rham. In the case of a smooth complex algebraic variety X , there are three variants: i) using the De Rham complex of algebraic differential forms on X ; ii) using the De Rham complex of holomorphic differential forms on the analytic manifold X underlying X ; iii) using the De Rham complex of Čech complex differential forms on the differentiable manifold X_{dR} underlying X . These variants turn out to be equivalent. Namely, one has canonical isomorphisms of hypercohomology. While the second isomorphism is a simple sheaf theoretic consequence of the Poincaré lemma, which identifies both vector spaces with the complex cohomology $H^*(X, \mathbb{P}^n)$ of the topological space underlying X the first isomorphism is a deeper result of A Grothendieck which shows in particular that the Betti numbers can be computed algebraically This result has been generalized by P Deligne to the case of nonconstant coefficients for any algebraic vector bundle M on X endowed with an integrable regular connection one has canonical isomorphisms The notion of regular connection is a higher dimensional generalization of the classical notion of fuchsian differential equations only regular singularities
