Articulation and Intelligibility Jont B. Allen, 2022-05-31 Immediately following the Second World War between 1947 and 1955 several classic papers quantified the fundamentals of human speech information processing and recognition In 1947 French and Steinberg published their classic study on the articulation index In 1948 Claude Shannon published his famous work on the theory of information In 1950 Fletcher and Galt published their theory of the articulation index a theory that Fletcher had worked on for 30 years which integrated his classic works on loudness and speech perception with models of speech intelligibility In 1951 George Miller then wrote the first book Language and Communication analyzing human speech communication with Claude Shannon's just published theory of information Finally in 1955 George Miller published the first extensive analysis of phone decoding in the form of confusion matrices as a function of the speech to noise ratio This work extended the Bell Labs speech articulation studies with ideas from Shannon's Information theory Both Miller and Fletcher showed that speech as a code is incredibly robust to mangling distortions of filtering and noise Regrettably much of this early work was forgotten While the key science of information theory blossomed other than the work of George Miller it was rarely applied to aural speech research The robustness of speech which is the most amazing thing about the speech code has rarely been studied It is my belief i.e. assumption that we can analyze speech intelligibility with the scientific method The quantitative analysis of speech intelligibility requires both science and art The scientific component requires an error analysis of spoken communication which depends critically on the use of statistics information theory and psychophysical methods The artistic component depends on knowing how to restrict the problem in such a way that progress may be made It is critical to tease out the relevant from the irrelevant and dig for the key issues This will focus us on the decoding of nonsense phonemes with no visual component which have been mangled by filtering and noise This monograph is a summary and theory of human speech recognition It builds on and integrates the work of Fletcher Miller and Shannon The long term goal is to develop a quantitative theory for predicting the recognition of speech sounds In Chapter 2 the theory is developed for maximum entropy MaxEnt speech sounds also called nonsense speech In Chapter 3 context is factored in The book is largely reflective and quantitative with a secondary goal of providing an historical context along with the many deep insights found in these early works Articulation And Intelligibility Jont B. Allen, 2005 Immediately following the Second World War between 1947 and 1955 several classic papers quantified the fundamentals of human speech information processing and recognition In 1947 French and Steinberg published their classic study on the articulation index In 1948 Claude Shannon published his famous work on the theory of information In 1950 Fletcher and Galt published their theory of the articulation index a theory that Fletcher had worked on for 30 years which integrated his classic works on loudness and speech perception with models of speech intelligibility In 1951 George Miller then wrote the first book Language and Communication analyzing human speech communication with Claude Shannon's just published theory of information Finally in 1955 George Miller published the first extensive analysis of phone decoding in the form of confusion matrices as a function of the speech to noise ratio This work extended the Bell Labs speech articulation studies with ideas from Shannon's Information theory Both Miller and Fletcher showed that speech as a code is incredibly robust to mangling distortions of filtering and noise

Investigations in Clinical Phonetics and Linguistics Fay Windsor,M. Louise Kelly,Nigel Hewlett,2012-12-06 Investigations in Clinical Phonetics and Linguistics is a sequel to the eighth meeting of the International Clinical Phonetics and Linguistics Association attended by delegates from 26 different countries This book reflects the scope of the subject area of clinical phonetics and linguistics the balance of input into it with respect to the different kinds of research being carried on and the representation of researchers from different parts of the world Its scope includes the application of all levels of linguistic analysis and the chapters of the book have been ordered as far as possible according to linguistic level beginning with pragmatics and ending with acoustics It will be immediately apparent that a greater number of chapters are concerned with applications of phonetics and phonology then with any other levels    Electrical Communication ,1923    Intelligibility in Speech Disorders Raymond D. Kent,1992-01-01 The papers in this volume written by authors experienced in intelligibility issues in speech pathology and related fields describe the basic dimensions by which speech intelligibility can and must be understood The dimensions are auditory perceptual linguistic acoustic and physiologic These in turn are applied to the fundamental problems of definition and theory measurement and clinical management Only relatively recently has there been significant progress in formal intelligibility assessment and few if any books have been published on intelligibility concerns in speech pathology It is hoped that this book represents the topic of intelligibility in a way that will encourage further invention in research and clinical efforts relating to this essential aspect of speech and language performance
