Art Encounters Deleuze and Guattari S. O'Sullivan, 2005-12-16 In a series of philosophical discussions and artistic case studies this volume develops a materialist and immanent approach to modern and contemporary art The argument is made for a return to aesthetics an aesthetics of affect and for the theorization of art as an expanded and complex practice Staging a series of encounters between specific Deleuzian concepts the virtual the minor the fold etc and the work of artists that position their work outside of the gallery or outside of representation Simon O Sullivan takes Deleuze s thought into other milieus allowing these possible worlds to work back on philosophy

Beyond Mimesis and Convention Roman Frigg, Matthew Hunter, 2010-04-28 Representation is a concern crucial to the sciences and the arts alike

Scientists devote substantial time to devising and exploring representations of all kinds From photographs and computer generated images to diagrams charts and graphs from scale models to abstract theories representations are ubiquitous in and central to science Likewise after spending much of the twentieth century in proverbial exile as abstraction and Formalist aesthetics reigned supreme representation has returned with a vengeance to contemporary visual art. Representative photography, video and ever-evolving forms of new media now figure prominently in the globalized art world while this return of the real has re-energized problems of representation in the traditional media of painting and sculpture. If it ever really left representation in the arts is certainly back. Central as they are to science and art these representational concerns have been perceived as different in kind and as objects of separate intellectual traditions. Scientific modeling and theorizing have been topics of heated debate in twentieth century philosophy of science in the analytic tradition while representation of the real and ideal has never moved far from the core humanist concerns of historians of Western art. Yet both of these traditions have recently arrived at a similar impasse. Thinking about representation has polarized into oppositions between mimesis and convention. Advocates of mimesis understand some notion of mimicry or similarity, resemblance or imitation as the core of representation: something represents something else if and only if the former mimics the latter in some relevant way. Such mimetic views stand in stark contrast to conventionalist accounts of representation which see voluntary and arbitrary stipulation as the core of representation. Occasional exceptions only serve to prove the rule that mimesis and convention govern current thinking about representation in both analytic philosophy of science and studies of visual art. This conjunction can hardly be dismissed as a matter of mere coincidence. In fact researchers in philosophy of science and the history of art have increasingly found themselves trespassing into the domain of the other community pilfering ideas and approaches to representation. Cognizant of the limitations of the accounts of representation available within the field, philosophers of science have begun to look outward toward the rich traditions of thinking about representation in the visual and literary arts. Simultaneously scholars in art history and affiliated fields like visual studies have come to see images generated in scientific contexts as not merely interesting illustrations derived from high art but as sophisticated visualization techniques that dynamically challenge our received conceptions of representation and aesthetics.

Beyond Mimesis and Convention

Representation in Art and Science is motivated by the conviction that we students of the sciences and arts are best served by confronting our mutual impasse and by recognizing the shared concerns that have necessitated our covert acts of kleptomania. Drawing leading contributors from the philosophy of science, the philosophy of literature, art history and visual studies our volume takes its brief from our title. That is, these essays aim to put the evidence of science and of art to work in thinking about representation by offering third or fourth or fifth ways beyond mimesis and convention. In so doing our contributors explore a range of topics: fictionalism, exemplification, neuroaesthetics, approximate truth, that build upon and depart from ongoing conversations in philosophy of science and studies of visual art in ways that will be of interest to both interpretive communities. To put these contributions into context the remainder of this introduction aims to survey how our communities have discretely arrived at a place wherein the perhaps surprising collaboration between philosophy of science and art history has become not only salubrious but a matter of necessity.

Corby,Eva Hesse,2010-06-22 In the ten years between 1960 and 1970 German born American artist Eva Hesse produced one of the most compelling art practices of the twentieth century Her death in 1970 has been a profound loss for contemporary art but the creative legacies of her practice continue to impact upon today s artists In this book Vanessa Corby presents a fascinating new analysis that starts from the position of a painter the book develops a novel art historical method to consider the manner in which artistic protocols and processes negotiate and transform culturally mediated historical experience Hesse s encounters with the work of Rico Lebrun the growing cultural significance of The Diary of Anne Frank and the capture and trial of Adolf Eichmann are each situated in relation to the artist s processes of picturing in order to supplement and shift current understanding of Hesse s art practice Corby aims to show that the artist s work emerged in parallel with the recognition of the event now

The Lambert Collection is one of the greatest collections of contemporary photographs in the world made during a time in which photographic art has undergone fundamental changes in both its intentions and perceptions This collection of essays by the foremost writers on international contemporary art accompanies full page reproductions of 130 photographs from the collection placing them in the context of contemporary art practice and singling out particular artists and images for their own personal analysis This book fills a real gap in photography publishing and critically examines the photographic creation of the recent decades

Embracing the Beat of Phrase: An Mental Symphony within Art Beyond Representation Art Beyond Representation

In a world used by screens and the ceaseless chatter of instantaneous interaction, the melodic beauty and mental symphony developed by the published term frequently disappear in to the background, eclipsed by the constant sound and disruptions that permeate our lives. However, situated within the pages of Art Beyond Representation Art Beyond Representation a marvelous fictional value full of fresh emotions, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by a wonderful musician of language, that charming masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological trip, well unraveling the hidden songs and profound impact resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths of the moving evaluation, we can discover the book is key harmonies, analyze its enthralling writing style, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
