Masonry, Bricklaying and Plastering, Both Plain and Ornamental Peter Nicholson, 2015-08-04 Excerpt from Practical Masonry Bricklaying and Plastering Both Plain and Ornamental Containing a New and Complete System of Lines for Stone Cutting In submitting the present Volume to the Public we have to offer our grateful acknowledgments for the very favourable reception which the previous work on Carpentry and Joinery has met with and we feel much gratified in having been in an eminent degree successful in our endeavours to unfold and elucidate the scientific Principles and Practical Application of those Arts which have the object of employing Wood in the construction of Buildings we now proceed to develope in a similar manner the scientific Frinciples and Practice of the Arts of Construction using other materials and particularly the important Arts of Masonry and Bricklaying and also the Ornamental Art of Plastering Our plan consists in separately treating the Arts of Construction and elucidating them by grouping together those principal branches which have a natural relation to each other and which require similar operations and in which a workman in the one always has an advantage in knowing the principles of the others and we are the more powerfully encouraged to proceed in it by the knowledge that this plan is as new as it will be found useful and we trust the Work itself will bear the palm as well for originality and beauty as for its practical utility The nature of our Work will be more fully understood from the following short sketch of its plan About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of
