Bridging The Class Divide And Other Lessons For Grassroots Organizing:

Bridging the Class Divide Linda Stout, 1997-02-28 Again and again social change movements on matters from the environment to women's rights have been run by middle class leaders. But in order to make real progress toward economic and social change poor people those most affected by social problems must be the ones to speak up and lead. It can be done. Linda Stout herself grew up in poverty in rural North Carolina and went on to found one of this country's most successful and innovative grassroots organizations the Piedmont Peace Project. Working for peace jobs health care and basic social services in North Carolina's conservative Piedmont region the project has attracted national attention for its success in drawing leadership from within a working class community actively encouraging diversity and empowering people who have never had a voice in policy decisions to speak up for their own interests. The Piedmont Peace Project demonstrates that new ways of organizing can really work. Bridging the Class Divide tells the inspiring story of Linda Stout's life as the daughter of a tenant farmer as a self taught activist and as a leader in the progressive movement. It also gives practical lessons on how to build real working relationships between people of different income levels races and genders. This book will inspire and enrich anyone who works for change in our society.

Revisiting the Use of Self Deena Mandell, 2007 In recent years several developments have stimulated new ways of thinking about the social worker's self or selves in all aspects of practice. The focus on practice with diverse populations and the emphasis on anti oppressive practice have highlighted elements of the relationship between social worker and client. The objective of this book is threefold: 1. Offer the reader a historical developmental overview of the concept of use of self and critically explore its adequacy for contemporary ethical practice. 2. Provide the reader with first person practitioners accounts of their own use of self in examples of reflective practice approaches 3 Broaden the scope of the concept of critical use of self to fields of service where it is under theorized in for example community work and corrections     Review of Adult Learning and Literacy, Volume 4 John Comings, Barbara Garner, Cristine Smith, 2004-07-13 The Review of Adult Learning and Literacy Connecting Research Policy and Practice Volume 4 is the newest addition to a series of annual publications of the National Center for the Study of Adult Learning and Literacy NCSALL that address major issues the latest research and the best practices in the field of adult literacy and learning Volume 4 opens with an overview of significant recent developments in the field Subsequent chapters cover a wide range of topics critical to the success of adult education and literacy services in the United States issues of race class gender and sexual orientation the role of workplace education in building adults basic skills the role of new learning technologies in adult education and literacy adult developmental theories and their implications for the teaching of adult basic education and English for speakers of other languages and traditional and contemporary adult learning theories including an annotated bibliography of key resources Intended for policymakers scholars and practitioners dedicated to improving the quality of adult basic education adult English for speakers of other languages and adult secondary education programs Review of Adult Learning and Literacy Volume 4 is an essential resource for the field
