

THE CONSTITUTION

1. What is a constitution?

It is a system of rules according to which a country or an organisation is governed.

2. Describe the four types of constitutions.

- i. Written Constitution: this is a constitution whose content or provisions are usually written down in a single document or book.
- ii. Unwritten Constitution: this is a constitution based on a collection of documents, statutes and traditional practices.
- iii. Flexible Constitution: this is any constitution that can be amended (changed) without calling for a referendum. All flexible constitutions are written.
- iv. Rigid Constitution: this is any constitution that is not easily amended.

3. State the terms described by the following statements:

- i. A group of elected representatives by various sections of society mandated to formulate, amend or adopt a national constitution. Constituent Assembly
- ii. A vote for or against (YES or NO) a constitutional provision by citizens. Referendum
- iii. A group of people appointed to look at various constitution provisions and collect views from citizens for the purpose of formulating a new constitution. Constitution Review Commission (CRC).

Bece2014 Civic Education Question:

Gender-Responsive Governance in Sierra Leone John Idriss Lahai, 2023-07-28 This book investigates gender equality and women's empowerment in Sierra Leone focusing especially on women's interactions with the state and its development partners. In particular, it highlights women's increasing agency in acquiring knowledge, diffusing power, engaging in grassroots politics, and compelling the government to adopt more gender-responsive policies. Exploiting extensive fieldwork and original multidisciplinary research methods including econometric and statistical models, the book first sets out the history and impact of inequality in Sierra Leone and then goes on to shed light on the constructive and collaborative engagement of women and the state on a variety of local and external strategies for promoting gender equality. Drawing throughout on insights from across gender studies, sociology, anthropology, economics, and political science, the book highlights how women are succeeding in transforming marginality into agency in order to build a platform for influencing change. By qualifying and quantifying the challenges of gender inequality in Sierra Leone and the progress that is being made, this book provides important insights that will be relevant to other fragile post-conflict states within Africa. The book will be of interest to students and researchers studying women and gender studies, African studies, economics, international development, sociology, and political science, and international relations. It will also deepen policymakers and practitioners' understanding of women's diverse trajectories and experiences and how the typology of government affects the patterns of inequality and equality.
