Office Buildings Pranab Kumar Nag, 2018-12-31 This book brings together concepts from the building environmental behavioural and health sciences to provide an interdisciplinary understanding of office and workplace design Today with changes in the world of work and the relentless surge in technology offices have emerged as the repositories of organizational symbolism denoted by the spatial design of offices physical settings and the built environment architecture urban locale Drawing on Euclidian geometry that quantifies space as the distance between two or more points a body of knowledge on office buildings the concept of office and office space and the interrelationships of spatial and behavioural attributes in office design are elucidated Building and office work related illnesses namely sick building syndrome and ailments arising from the indoor environment and the menace of musculoskeletal disorders are the alarming manifestations that critically affect employee satisfaction morale and work outcomes With a focus on office ergonomics the book brings the discussion on the fundamentals of work design with emphasis on computer workstation users Strategic guidance of lighting systems and visual performance in workplaces are directed for better application of ergonomics and improvement in office indoor environment It discusses the profiles of bioclimatic indoor air quality ventilation intervention lighting and acoustic characteristics in office buildings Emphasis has been given to the energy performance of buildings and contemporary perspectives of building sustainability such as green office building assessment schemes and national and international building related standards and codes. Intended for students and professionals from ergonomics, architecture, interior design as well as construction, engineers, health care professionals and office planners, the book brings a unified overview of the health, safety and environment issues associated with the design of office buildings. Beyond the Workplace Zoo Nigel Oseland, 2021-09-27. This book begins by outlining the common design mistakes with the modern open plan office and the industry focus on cost that has resulted in the ill-fated Workplace Zoo. The requirements of office-based workers according to psychological theory and research are then explained. Dr Oseland references historical studies in psychophysics to describe how to design environmental conditions: acoustics, lighting, temperature, indoor air quality that enhance performance by supporting basic physiological needs. More contemporary research in environmental psychology investigates how cognition affects our interpretation and response to physical stimuli depending on personality, context, attitude and other personal factors. This in turn informs individual requirements for the environmental conditions as well as group needs. Studies in evolutionary psychology and biophilia are also referenced. The latter part of the book turns to workplace solutions and focuses on how to plan, design and manage offices to accommodate our innate human needs now and in the future. The importance of designing for inclusivity is also recognised, including accommodating cultural, gender and generational differences along with designing spaces for neurodiversity. Dr Oseland's proposed workplace solution, the Landscaped Office, is a revived and revised version of Brolandschaft with a contemporary twist. The impact of workplace trends such as agile working and hot desking is also explored and found to complement the workplace solution, resulting in the Agile Landscaped Office. This book is key reading for professionals and postgraduate students in business, interior design, architecture, surveying, facilities management, building services, engineering, HR and organisational or environmental psychology.

Building Services Journal, 2006. Green Buildings Pay Brian Edwards, Emanuele Naboni, 2013-08-22. This third edition of Green Buildings Pay presents new evidence and new arguments concerning the institutional and business case that can be made for green design. The green argument has moved a long way forward since the previous edition and this fully updated book addresses the key issues faced by architect, engineer and client today. Green Buildings Pay: Design, Productivity and Ecology examines through a range of detailed case studies how different approaches to green design can produce more sustainable patterns of development. These cases are examined from three main perspectives: that of the architect, the client and the user. Completely revised with all new chapters, cases, sections and introductory material, the third edition presents over 20 new researched case studies drawn from the UK, Europe and the USA, written in collaboration with the architects, engineers, clients and user groups. Examples of office and educational buildings of high sustainable and high architectural quality, an exploration of the architectural innovations that have been driven by environmental thinking such as the new approaches to the design of building facades, roofs and atria, cases which demonstrate current practice in the area of energy eco retrofits of existing buildings documentation of the benefit impact assessment schemes such as LEED and BREEAM have had upon client expectations and on design approaches over the past decade beautiful full color illustrations throughout In the fast evolving arena of green building the book shows how architects are reshaping their practices to deal with ever more demanding energy standards and better informed users and corporate clients A Carbon Primer for the Built
