Bearded Dragons : a Guide from a Veterinarian on Caring for Your Bearded Dragon How to Make Your Dragon Live for 12 Years Or More Donald Wilson,2012-06-01 Bearded dragons make great pets as they love human beings and actually like to be handled by them These are docile creatures but they can be aggressive if their space is being invaded by another animal Bearded dragons usually live for ten years but with the right care which includes the right temperature food and habitat they have been known to live for longer Bearded dragons love to eat but they should never be overfed as this could lead to paralysis in the younger ones who may eventually die Their diet should include insects fruits and vegetables as they are omnivorous by nature They are susceptible to certain diseases such as calcium deficiency gastrointestinal and fungal infections and should be taken to a Herp veterinarian if you see them displaying the symptoms of these illnesses Like their other reptile counterparts the bearded dragon is also prone to bacterial diseases such as salmonella and as such when you bathe touch handle and clean their cage you need to ensure that your hands are properly washed both before and after any of these activities Rubber gloves are highly recommended especially for use when you are cleaning their habitat to avoid the spread of bacteria
