Charting a Course to Standards-Based Grading Tim Westerberg,2016-08-24 What s the best way to ensure that grading policies are fair accurate and consistent across classrooms How can schools transition to a grading system that better reflects what students are actually learning Tim R Westerberg makes this journey easier by offering a continuum of options with four destinations on the road to improved grading and assessment Destination 1 critically examines such popular grading mechanisms as the zero extra credit the semester killer project averaging mixing academic performance with work ethic and refusing to accept late work and explains how they undermine objectivity and instead result in widely divergent grades for comparable work with major consequences for students Destination 2 invites educators to put assessment and grading into the larger context of a districtwide guaranteed and viable curriculum and lays out the organizational conditions and necessary steps to accomplish this goal Destination 3 brings parents and others on board with a multiyear implementation plan and community engagement strategies for introducing report cards that indicate student achievement by standards rather than or in addition to letter grades Destination 4 competency based education involves a total rethinking of the nature and structure of school leading to individualized education for all students However far they choose to go administrators and teacher leaders can turn to Charting a Course to Standards Based Grading for the quick wins and long term support and guidance they need to make the trip well worth the effort

Grading for Impact Tom Hierck, Garth L. Larson, 2018 Aim for a target based grading system and create stronger learning opportunities Do you wish there was more clarity when it comes to measuring student progress and learning What if there was a way to utilize grading and assessment to focus on learning rather than performance and the process rather than the product As grading assessment and reporting continue to be relevant topics of discussion this book helps you create a functional plan to elevate and advance standards based grading practices Teachers and administrators will learn how to assess grade and report against specific learning targets rather than standards as a whole to make skill acquisition the highest priority Grounded in application to provide focus and clarity this book features Real case studies of schools that have incorporated target based assessment feedback grading and reporting Practical examples to guide implementation Questions checklists illustrations and audits of practice to showcase the work in action An accessible format and layout that support both immediate implementation and long term goals Despite being a topic that generates emotion and resistance to change target based assessment builds the foundation for a learner centered system that provides clear expectations and feedback for teachers students and parents Grading for Impact is a simple and straightforward guide to re thinking grading based on mastery of specific skills and concepts rather than broadly written standards Real world examples of teachers struggling with and answering the old questions are included How do we grade fairly and accurately and How do we use grades as an instructional strategy Joseph Staub High School Teacher Downtown Magnets High School CA Most stakeholders agree that report cards aren t enough to show what our students are learning in school but changing the traditional grading system is a task that requires careful planning and challenging discussions Grading for Impact shows educators how to start and plan the discussions that will result in genuine learning experiences for students Ernie Rambo Virtual Learning Community Coordinator Nevada National Board Professional Learning Institute     The Theory and Practice of Grading Writing Frances Zak, Christopher C. Weaver, 1998-02-05 CHOICE 1998 Outstanding Academic Books Grading is one of the thorniest issues writing teachers must deal with yet surprisingly little has been written on this topic As writing teachers move increasingly toward practices that focus on writing as a process they face a growing need to reconsider their systems of grading to determine whether or not these systems support their pedagogies The authors interrogate the grading of individual papers as well as portfolios and the assigning of end of term grades This collection explores the issues and problems that have emerged as conventional grading practices have lagged behind and been challenged by new theories of language While the book will be of interest to theorists Zak and Weaver have also made the book relevant and useful to teachers whose primary interest is the practical consequences of theory in their classrooms Where theoretical discussion takes place the language is clear and accessible Many of the authors write directly from personal experience telling stories of the classroom or writing of new techniques and approaches they have tried They speak with the voices of teachers and the tone and content of their words convey a sense of the immediacy of the topic     Improving the Grading System Joseph B. Paul, 1932     A Complete Guide to Student Grading Thomas M. Haladyna, 1999 How do we grade our students As simple as this question seems there is much more to grading than simply writing a letter or number on a class roster or entering it in a report card This book gives you a complete answer to this question It will help you better understand why you grade the importance of grades how to effectively communicate with your students about grading and how you will assign grades When grading is done well students know what to expect and can perform accordingly thereby fulfilling your wish to see them succeed Chapters include Absolute Standards Pass Fail Methods Mastery Grading Self Paced Learning and Evaluation Blanket Grading Hybrid Methods and How to Design A Grading System     Degrading the Grading Myths Sidney B. Simon,James A. Bellanca,1976     Making Grades Matter Matt Townsley,Nathan L. Wear,2020 In Making Grades Matter Standards Based Grading in a Secondary PLC authors Matt Townsley and Nathan L Wear provide readers with a practical guide toward the implementation of the standards based grading system Although much has been written about the concept and advantages of standards based grading in this book the authors focus specifically on implementing the framework at the secondary level with the vital support of a professional learning community PLC As such this book provides a roadmap that secondary school educators and administrators working in a PLC can utilize to initiate the multiyear process toward implementing standards based grading schoolwide or districtwide Not only are each of the practices needed for this change covered in detail but each practice is connected directly with one of three foundational principles of standards based grading In this book readers will find all of the tools resources and guidance they need to not only implement the standards based grading system in their schools but through collaborative work within a PLC achieve the greatest possible success with it     Grading System Changes New York State Library.
