Guide to the Australian Ethnological Collection Exhibited in the National Museum of Victoria Victoria Public Library,

Museums and National Gallery, Melbourne, 1915 Native Kate Herd, Jela Ivankovic-Waters, 2020-10-27 Native offers planting palettes and design themes gardening techniques and inspiration for an original and exciting perspective on the very best of Australian local flora. When Kate Herd started experimenting with how she pruned and trained the native plants in her riverside garden in Melbourne she made some amazing discoveries. A eucalyptus shrub she had cut right back to the ground reappeared as the most beautiful sprawling ground cover. Westringia was shaped to impersonate perfect English Box balls. And she found that Tasmanian beech trees could grow as a copse in small city courtyards. Jela had similar experiences in her own garden design practice and together Kate and Jela have explored the unique beauty and resilience of Australia's native plants. Known for their absolute versatility and hardiness in the garden native plants also offer up original forms for cut flowers and sculpture. Garden designers Fiona Brockhoff and Sue Barnsley, Sculptor Tracey Deep and Artist Janet Lawrence all share their own love of Australian plants and how they incorporate them into their work. Chapters cover topics such as Feature Foliage, Sculptural Forms, Pliability, Shady Spaces and Flowering Meadows.

The Journal of the Institution of Engineers, Australia Institution of Engineers Australia, 1929 Contemporary Australian Garden Design John Patrick, Jenny Wade, 2008 ABC Gardening Australia's John Patrick takes you on a tour of twenty of Australia's most beautiful gardens and introduces you to some outstanding garden design.

Australian Native Plants in Urban Planting Design Yuri Hulak, 1996 Designs for a Global Plant Species Information System F. A. Bisby, George F. Russell, R. J. Pankhurst, 1993 Demand for the conservation of rapidly disappearing plants and ecological communities has provided botanists, systematists and computer scientists with a unified goal: the production of a computer based information checklist for all of the world's plants. Progress has been rapid in recent years. From a diverse array of disconnected systems and databases there now exists a single internationally supervised organization that is working to create an Internet accessible common directory of existing databases and a computer based vascular plants action list. This book details the proceedings of that organization's symposium which examined the wide range of options open to the biodiversity community in creating a global plant species information system. Questions addressed include how an effective single taxonomic catalog and reference system can be conceived and implemented; what computer system software and data structures might enable both contributions from many sites and global access to the information; and how the needs of the biodiversity conservation, pharmaceutical, agrochemical, biotechnology and plant breeding communities can be met by using the plant catalog as a backbone for a variety of other databases of applied botanical data. This volume will be welcomed by all those in the fields of biodiversity and conservation who want to follow the details of this stimulating and important endeavor.
