

The background of the slide is a dark, deep blue or black, filled with numerous small, glowing white and light blue dots, resembling stars or distant galaxies. Overlaid on this are several large, intricate, and colorful microscopic structures. In the lower-left, there is a large, circular organism with a bright yellow-green ring around its center and a complex, web-like structure of fine lines extending from it. To its right, there is a star-shaped organism with many thin, radiating lines. In the upper-right, there are long, thin, greenish-yellow filamentous structures. Other smaller, more complex structures are visible throughout the background, creating a sense of a vast, mysterious microbial world.
