Other Authors' Comparative Surveyed Measures (AATLUS) were also used to compare and contrast the different measures. The survey measures, however, are broader than the measures developed for this study. The survey measures were developed to compare the different needs of various industries (public and non-governmental) to similar organizations. The survey measures, therefore, were not developed to compare the different needs of various industries to similar organizations. The survey measures, therefore, were not developed to compare the different needs of various industries to similar organizations.
