Algerians Without Borders Allan Christelow,2012 This account of Algeria through its migratory history begins in the last quarter of the eighteenth century by looking at forced migration through the slave trade It moves through the colonial era and continues into Algeria's turbulent postcolonial experience Mecca of Revolution Jeffrey James Byrne,2016-03-15 Through an examination of Algeria's interactions with the wider world from the beginning of its war of independence to the fall of its first post colonial regime Mecca of Revolution provides the Third Worldist perspective on twentieth century international history Featuring pioneering research on multiple continents it rejuvenates the fields of diplomatic history and post colonial studies France and Algeria Phillip Naylor,2024-06-11 An examination of the complicated history between France and Algeria since the latter's independence While most related studies concentrate on the colonial era and Algeria's War of Independence France and Algeria details the nations postcolonial relationship Phillip Naylor provides a philosophical approach contending that France reformulated rather than repudiated essential strategic values during decolonization It thus continued to pursue grandeur and independence especially with regard to the Third World and Algeria an essentialism that expedited France's postcolonial transformation But as a new nation Algeria needed to pursue the existential project of self definition It became involved in state building while also promulgating socialism and it recognized how French oil concessions in the Sahara impeded its independence leading to the industry's postcolonial decolonization Finally the postcolonial relationship has featured a human dimension involving immigrants pieds noirs colonial settlers and harkis Algerian soldiers loyal to France all of them central to bilateral relations In this revised and updated edition of his seminal work first published over twenty years ago Naylor expands his coverage of the decolonization era drawing on new information while continuing to study the ever evolving relationship between the two countries These new additions expose the continually shifting relations of power perception and identity between the two states Electric News in Colonial Algeria Arthur Asseraf,2019-08-08 How do the things which connect us also serve to divide us Electric News in Colonial Algeria traces how news circulated in a particularly divided society Algeria under French rule in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries It tells a different history of globalization one which puts the experience of everyday people at the centre The years between 1881 and 1940 were those of maximum colonial power in North Africa a period of intense technological revolution global high imperialism and the expansion of settler colonialism Algerians became connected to international networks of news and local people followed distant events with great interest But once news reached Algeria accounts of recent events often provoked conflict as they moved between different social groups In a society split between its native majority and a substantial settler minority distant wars led to riots Circulation and polarisation were two sides of the same coin Examining a range of sources in multiple languages across colonial society Electric News in Colonial Algeria offers a new understanding of the spread of news News was a whole ecosystem in which new technologies such as the printing press telegraph cinema and radio interacted with older media like songs rumours letters and manuscripts The French government watched anxiously over these developments monitoring Algerians reactions to news through an extensive network of surveillance that often ended up spreading news rather than controlling its flow By tracking what different people thought of as news this history helps us reconsider the relationship between time media and historical change Middle East Report
