Alien Nation And Repatriation Translating Identity In Anglophone Caribbean Literature:

Alien-nation and Repatriation Patricia Joan Saunders, 2007-01-01 Alien Nation and Repatriation is a critical examination of race sexuality gender and migration in Caribbean nationalist literatures The more complex contribution made in this book however is its insistence on centering the philosophical implications of interpreting or translating black female subjectivity back into the literary landscapes of Caribbean literary and cultural texts from which they were erased or disciplined into silence This book suggests that reading strategies reproduce hegemonic constructions of black women s identities and postionalities as subjects and citizens in Caribbean literature

British Empire and the Literature of Rebellion

Sheshalatha Reddy, 2017-10-14 This book examines imperial and nationalist discourses surrounding three contemporaneous and unsuccessful mid nineteenth century colonial uprisings against the British Empire the Sepoy Rebellion 1857 in India the Morant Bay Rebellion 1865 in Jamaica and the Fenian Rebellion 1867 in Ireland In reading these three mid century rebellions as flashpoints for the varying yet parallel attempts by imperialist colonialists nationalists and socialists to transform the oppressed colonized worker the subjected laborer into one whose identity is created and limited by labor a laboring subject this book also tracks varying modes of resistance to those attempts in all three colonies In drawing from a range of historical literary and visual sources outside the borders of the Anglophone literary canon this book contends that these texts not only serve as points of engagements with the rebellions but also constitute an archive of oppression and resistance

The Cambridge Companion to Twentieth Century Literature and Politics Christos Hadjiyiannis, Rachel Potter, 2022-12-15 Many twentieth century literary writers were directly involved in political parties and causes and many viewed their writing as part of their activism This book explores literature s direct relationship to politics offering new ways of thinking about the troubled relationship between literature and politics

Edinburgh

Companion to British Colonial Periodicals Caroline Davis, David Johnson, David Finkelstein, 2024-08-31 This Companion showcases the latest research into British colonial periodicals by leading scholars in the field The first ever large scale attempt to gather into one volume research on British colonial periodicals the chapters in this volume analyse the fundamental role played by colonial periodicals in sustaining as well as contesting the economic political and cultural hegemony of the British Empire from its inception to its fall The volume considers both periodicals published in Britain for colonial consumption and those published in British colonies and dominions

Archiving Creole Voices

Marl'ene

Edwin, 2024-12-20 Archiving Creole Voices Representations of Language and Culture begins with a re reading of selected texts by female Caribbean writers specifically Joan Anim Addo Olive Senior and Merle Collins and proclaims that literary fiction can and does function as a creolised archive Marl ene Edwin argues that historic marginalisation which has barred Caribbean scholars from entering formal archival spaces has created an alternative discourse Consequently Caribbean writers have chosen the imagined landscapes of literature a new archival space for the Caribbean within which to document and preserve Caribbean cultural traditions Fiction allows for the safeguarding of traditions so how then should Caribbean literature be read The combination of a physical and a virtual archive questions the literary and linguistic interface that such a mingling entails in a preservation of Caribbean culture Edwin argues for an appreciation of orality as performance as well as the reading of texts as creolised archive

The Devil, the Lovers, & Me Kimberlee Auerbach, 2007 The author describes her survival of an abusive relationship her mother s mid life sexual proclivities and the interference of friends and her father during a promising new romance challenges that prompted her visit to an atypical tarot card reader Ariel, 2013 New Books on Women, Gender and Feminism, 2008 Beyond Caliban : (DIS)forming Identity and Being in Contemporary Anglophone Caribbean Literature Patricia Joan Saunders, 1999 Belonging-in-difference Marie-France Faulkner, 2013 Through the critical discourse analysis of Anglophone Caribbean literature as a polyrhythmic performance this research sets out to examine the claim that in a world in a state of constant flux emerging Caribbean voices are offering a challenging perspective on how to negotiate identity away from the binary constructs of centre and margin It argues that the Caribbean writer as a self conscious producer of alternative discourses offers an innovative and transcultural vision of the self This research consists of three stages which integrate critical discourse and literary analysis with colonial postcolonial and socio cultural theories Firstly it investigates the power of language as an operation of discourse through which to apprehend reality within a binary system of representation It then examines how the concept of discourse as a site of contestation and meaning enables the elaboration of a Caribbean counter discourse Finally it explores the role within the Caribbean text of literary techniques such as narrative fragmentation irony dialogism intertextuality ambivalence and the carnivalesque to challenge disrupt the established order and offer new perspectives of being My study of Anglophone Caribbean texts highlights the power of language and the authority of the book as subtle insidious tools of domination and colonisation It also demonstrates how by allowing hitherto marginalised voices to write themselves into being Caribbean writers enable linear narratives and monolithic visions of reality to be contested and other perspectives of understanding and of meaning to be uncovered It exposes the plurality and the interweaving of discourses in the Caribbean text as a liberating dynamic force which enables new subject positions and realities to emerge along the lines of similarity and difference At a time when the issue of identity is one of the central problems in the world today the research argues that this celebration of the plural the fluid and the ambivalent offers new ways of being away from the stultifying perspective of essentialist forms

The Routledge Companion to Anglophone Caribbean Literature Michael A. Bucknor, Alison Donnell, 2011-06-14 This Companion is divided into six sections that provide an introduction to and critical history of the field discussions of key texts and a critical debate on major topics such as the nation race gender and migration In the final section contributors examine the material dissemination of Caribbean literature and point towards the new directions that Caribbean literature and criticism are taking

Jamaica's Difficult Subjects Sheri-Marie Harrison, 2014 Recognizing that in the contemporary postcolonial moment national identity and cultural nationalism are no longer the primary modes of imagining sovereignty Sheri Marie Harrison argues that postcolonial critics must move beyond an identity based orthodoxy as they examine problems of sovereignty In Jamaica's Difficult Subjects: Negotiating Sovereignty in Anglophone Caribbean Literature and Criticism Harrison describes what she calls difficult subjects subjects that disrupt essentialized notions of identity as equivalent to sovereignty She argues that these subjects function as a call for postcolonial critics to broaden their critical horizons beyond the usual questions of national identity and exclusion inclusion Harrison turns to Jamaican novels creative nonfiction and films from the 1960s to the present and demonstrates how they complicate standard notions of the relationship between national identity and sovereignty She constructs a lineage between the difficult subjects in classic Caribbean texts like Wide Sargasso Sea by Jean Rhys and The Harder they Come by Perry Henzell and contemporary writing by Marlon James and Patricia Powell What results is a sweeping new history of Caribbean literature and criticism that reconfigures how we understand both past and present writing Jamaica's Difficult Subjects rethinks how sovereignty is imagined organized and policed in the postcolonial Caribbean opening new possibilities for reading multiple generations of Caribbean writing

Becoming Home: Diaspora and the Anglophone Transnational Jude V. Nixon, Mariaconcetta Costantini, 2022-03-15 Becoming Home: Diaspora and the Anglophone Transnational is a collection of essays exploring national identity migration exile colonialism postcolonialism slavery race and gender in the literature of the Anglophone world The volume focuses on the dispersion or scattering of people in exile and how those with an existing homeland and those displaced without a politically recognized sovereign state negotiate displacement and the experience of living at home abroad This group includes expatriate minority communities existing uneasily and nostalgically on the margins of their host country The diaspora becomes an important cultural phenomenon in the formation of national identities and opposing attempts to transcend the idea of nationhood itself on its way to developing new forms of transnationalism Chapters on the literature or national allegories of the diaspora and the transnational explore the diverse and geographically expansive ways in which Anglophone literature by colonized subjects and emigrants negotiates diasporic spaces to create imagined communities or a sense of home Themes explored within these pages include restlessness tensions trauma ambiguities assimilation estrangement myth nostalgia sentimentality homesickness national schizophrenia divided loyalties intellectual capital and geographical interstices Special attention is paid to the complex ways identity is negotiated by immigrants to

Anglophone countries writing in English about their home abroad experience The lived experiences of emigrants of the diaspora create a literature rife with tensions concerning identity language and belongingness in the struggle for home Focusing on writers in particular geopolitical spaces the essays in the collection offer an active conversation with leading theorists of the diaspora and the transnational including Edward Said Bill Ashcroft William Safran Gabriel Sheffer Stuart Hall Homi Bhabha Frantz Fanon and Benedict Anderson This volume cuts across the broad geopolitical space of the Anglophone world of literature and cultural studies and will appeal to professors scholars graduate and undergraduate students in English comparative literature history ethnic and race studies diaspora studies migration and transnational studies The volume will also be an indispensable aid to public policy experts

Exile and Return as Poetics of Identity in Contemporary Anglo-Caribbean Literature Eleonora Natalia Ravizza, 2019-11-25 In contemporary Anglo Caribbean literature the dialectic interrelations of exile and return are essential for conveying meta reflections on literature and language as well as the role they play in the construction of personal and collective identities While this volume focuses on the specificity of a cultural area whose history is marked by colonialism diaspora slavery and racial conflicts it also raises epistemological questions surrounding the complexity of literature and its function in a world which is ever more composite hybrid and transcultural By developing a new systematic approach which combines post colonial studies theories of intertextuality and philosophy of language it explores how contemporary literary texts reflect elaborate and redefine the experiences of societies that are currently dealing with ever growing global interdependencies and newly formed cultural and semiotic context

Notions of Identity, Diaspora, and Gender in Caribbean Women's Writing B. Mehta, 2009-09-14 Notions of Identity Diaspora and Gender in Caribbean Women's Writing uses a unique four dimensional lens to frame questions of diaspora and gender in the writings of women from Martinique Guadeloupe and Haiti These divergent and interconnected perspectives include violence trauma resistance and expanded notions of Caribbean identity In these writings diaspora represents both a wound created by slavery and Indian indenture and the discursive praxis of defining new identities and cultural possibilities These framings of identity provide inclusive and complex readings of transcultural Caribbean diasporas especially in terms of gender and minority cultures

Locating the Destitute Stanka Radovic, 2014-07-29 While postcolonial discourse in the Caribbean has drawn attention to colonialism's impact on space and spatial hierarchy Stanka Radovic asks both how ordinary people as users of space have been excluded from active and autonomous participation in shaping their daily spatial reality and how they challenge this exclusion In a comparative interdisciplinary reading of anglophone and francophone Caribbean literature and contemporary spatial theory she focuses on the house as a literary figure and the ways that fiction and acts of storytelling resist the oppressive hierarchies of colonial and neocolonial domination The author engages with the theories of Henri Lefebvre Michel Foucault and contemporary critical geographers in addition to selected fiction by V S Naipaul Patrick Chamoiseau Beryl Gilroy and Rafael Confiant to examine the novelists construction of narrative houses to reclaim not only actual or imaginary places but also the very conditions of self representation Radovi ultimately argues for the power of literary imagination to contest the limitations of geopolitical boundaries by emphasizing space and place as fundamental to our understanding of social and political identity The physical places described in these texts crystallize the protagonists ambiguous and complex relationship to the New World Space is then as the author shows both a political fact and a powerful metaphor whose imaginary potential continually challenges its material limitations

Transnational Negotiations in Caribbean Diasporic Literature Kezia Page, 2010-09-13 Taking an interdisciplinary approach Page casts light on the role of citizenship immigration and transnational mobility in Caribbean migrant and diaspora fiction Page s historical socio cultural study responds to the general trend in migration discourse that presents the Caribbean experience as unidirectional and uniform across the geographical spaces of home and diaspora She argues that engaging the Caribbean diaspora and the massive waves of migration from the region that have punctuated its history involves not only understanding communities in host countries and the conflicted identities of second generation subjectivities but also interpreting how these communities interrelate with and affect communities at home In particular Page examines two socio economic and political practices remittance and deportation exploring how they function as tropes in migrant literature and as ways of theorizing such literature

Emigration and Caribbean Literature Malachi McIntosh, Wana, 2016-04-29 During and after the two World Wars a cohort of Caribbean authors migrated to the UK and France Dissecting writers like Lamming C saire and Glissant McIntosh reveals how these Caribbean writers were pushed to represent themselves as authentic spokesmen for their people coming to represent the concerns of the emigrant intellectual community

Marvelous Journeys Margaret Heady, 2008 Marvelous Journeys explores the transition from a modernist to a postmodernist consciousness in twentieth century Caribbean writings on identity that is reflected through a corresponding evolution in the use of the marvelous as a literary tool For the three novelists who are the focus of this study Jacques Stephen Alexis Alejo Carpentier and Simone Schwarz Bart the discourse of the marvelous offers a uniquely Caribbean vehicle for capturing an elusive Caribbean essence as well as for coming to terms with the seemingly contradictory demands of a Parisian intellectual formation and an authentic Caribbean sensibility This book engages with recent debates in criticism and theory and will appeal to a broad spectrum of readers interested in Francophone literature Caribbean studies and literary and postcolonial theory It contributes to the burgeoning field of Caribbean literary studies by adopting a transcultural approach to a neglected but increasingly important area of study the circulation of ideas and influences among the Hispanic and Francophone Caribbean islands and the African and European continents
